CHINA HINTS AT STRONG REPRISALS TO U.S. MONETARY POLICY

SUCCESSOR TO DR. RAJCHMANN NOT APPOINTED

JAPAN'S INFLUENCE
RESPONSIBLE

DEVELOPMENT WORK TO CONTINUE IN CHINA

Geneva, Yesterday.

The League has not appointed anyone to succeed Dr. Rajchmann in connection with the work of technical collaboration in China, but a director of one of the competent sections of the League will be despatched to China for a short period to examine the measures necessary for ensuring a continuation of the development work.

It is not yet decided who will be sent, or the date of his departure. The director's mission will be to examine the present situation with reference to technical co-operation, particularly from the administrative side, and the establishment of an organization to ensure official co-operation.

There is also a complication in the Japanese attitude concerning international interests in China which is doubtless partly responsible for the Committee's decision not to renew Dr. Rajchmann's contract. — Reuter.

"GOOD THING IF THE N.R.A. WAS REPEALED"

SENATOR'S SLASHING
STATEMENT

RICHEBERG EXPLAINS

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received September 29, 12.45 p.m.)

New York, To-day.

Returning from Europe, yesterday, the Chairman of the United States Senate Appropriations Committee, Senator Carter Glass, said that it would be a good thing if the N.R.A. was repealed. He declined to amplify his statement.

Mr. Donald R. Richeberg has announced that his committee will act in an advisory capacity to President Roosevelt, co-ordinating the policies of all the Governmental agencies. He said that business was now insured against sudden unco-ordinated shifts of the "New Deal" emergency policies.

He promised that there would be no sweeping changes in the N.R.A., and said that price fixing and production control would be considered from the standpoint of individual industries.

He said that the organization created on Thursday was a trial set-up, pending Congressional action in connection with the emergency agencies which are expiring at the next session of Congress.—United Press per S. E. Levy and Company.

NEWSPAPER ATTACKS U.S. SILVER BILL

MOST LUDICROUS OF MONETARY LAWS

"GREEDY DESIGNS" OF
METAL INTERESTS

New York, Yesterday.

The Opposition organ, the New York Herald Tribune, has not been slow to ridicule the Government's silver policy, "adopted in order to restore the purchasing power of China," as some enthusiastic advocates in Congress asserted when the Bill was pending.

"When the history of the present period of monetary experimentation is written, no chapter we are sure, will emerge quite as ludicrous as the silver purchase law," the journal states. "It remains only for China to demonstrate silver to add the final touch of irony to make the chapter perfect."

"It would indeed be poetic justice if by their greedy short-sighted designs for the restoration of silver, the silver interests ultimately found that they had driven that metal from its last remaining stronghold," the newspaper adds.—Reuter.

STERLING SLUMP RESUMES

Sequel To Passing Of Belgian Crisis

London, Yesterday.

Fresh offerings from the Continent have led to a resumption of the downward trend of sterling in terms of the dollar and the franc after yesterday's recovery caused by Continental bear covering in connection with the rumours that the Belgium Cabinet discussions might lead to the abandonment of the gold standard by Belgium thus weakening the gold bloc.

To-day's news of the aversion of the Belgium Cabinet crisis resulted in the above mentioned reversal tendency.

SILVER EMBARGO NOT CONTEMPLATED

KUNG REFUTES RUMOURS
OF GOLD STANDARD

U.S. CO-OPERATION INVITED

SHANGHAI, YESTERDAY.

THE CHINESE MINISTER OF FINANCE, MR. H. H. KUNG, TO-DAY VIGOROUSLY DENIED THE REPORTS THAT CHINA HAS INFORMED AMERICA THAT SHE IS GOING ON THE GOLD STANDARD AS A RESULT OF THE EFFECTS OF THE AMERICAN MONETARY POLICY.

Mr. Kung, in an interview with Reuter, said that last Monday, in continuation of an exchange of views which had been going on at Washington for some time, China drew the attention of the American Government to the hardships caused in China through the fluctuations in exchange and the drain of silver from China.

Mr. Kung hinted that strong action was likely when he said that the Chinese Government, as a matter essential to national interest, was giving consideration to measures which might be taken if circumstances warrant, "and he had invited the American Government to co-operate."

HE EMPHATICALLY DENIED, HOWEVER, THAT AN EMBARGO ON THE EXPORTATION OF SILVER WAS CONTEMPLATED.—REUTER.

ROOSEVELT CONFERENCE ANNOUNCED TO DISCUSS CHINA'S PROTEST

VEILED THREAT IN NOTE

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received September 29, 9.21 a.m.)

Washington, Yesterday.

President Roosevelt has announced that he expects to confer in a few days with the Treasury Secretary, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, and the Secretary of State, Mr. William Cordell Hull, regarding the Chinese protest that the United States silver policy is injurious to China.

Mr. Morgenthau refused to comment, although he reported that he has been studying the note for several days.

The note is said to deal vigorously with the United States silver purchase policy, and the recent rise in the price of silver is attributed to the United States Treasury buying.

The note points out that the rising price of silver is deflating China's currency, and asserts flatly that such deflation cannot be permitted by China. The note hints that China may follow the Kommer Commission's recommendations of March, 1930, adopting a gold standard, with the new currency thus created based upon a 5 to 1 ratio with the present United States dollar. Such a step would be taken as a measure of self-defence.

It is understood that the note suggests that the United States purchase China's entire stock of silver, paying for it in gold bullion.

In the event of this proposal being accepted, it is understood that the Chinese Government might place an embargo on the export of silver which would tend to fix the price of silver in China, making it possible for the Chinese Government to take over all private silver holdings. (Continued on Page 16.)

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Chinese Finance Ministry to-day issued the following statement:—

"Mr. H. H. Kung, interviewed concerning the reports from Washington in regard to silver and monetary problems, stated that a further communication to the American Government was made on Monday in continuation of the exchanges of views which have for sometime been taking place. This communication again drew the attention of the American Government to the hardships caused in China by reason of the fluctuations of exchange and particularly the drain of silver."

Mr. Kung also confirmed that the Chinese Government, as a matter essential to national interest, was naturally giving consideration to measures that might be taken if circumstances warrant and had invited the American Government to co-operate. He emphatically denied, however, that an embargo on the exportation of silver was contemplated.—United Press per S. E. Levy & Co.

PUZZLED AIR

Chinese Banks Cause
Price To Fall

London, yesterday.

Reuter's interview with the Chinese Minister of Finance, containing the statement that China is contemplating strong action to safeguard her silver interests, is the main topic of conversation in silver circles, which, however, are at a loss to understand what action could be taken except an embargo on silver or the adoption of a gold standard.

It is pointed out that the former course would result in a further rise in silver, thus aggravating China's difficulties, while the latter course is ruled out as unlikely.

As the immediate result of the declaration, Chinese banks and speculators sold, which, in the narrow market, caused a fall in price of 1/8, but Indian speculators stepped in at the decline.—Reuter.

CHINESE BOMBING PLANE CRASHES AND CATCHES ON FIRE

Commanding Officer's
Narrow Escape

ENGINE COMPLETELY FAILS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

CANTON, YESTERDAY. A DOUGLAS BOMBING PLANE WHICH CRASHED ON A HILL NEAR SZU SHAN STATION, ON THE CANTON-SHANGHAI RAILWAY, WAS BROUGHT BACK TO THE TYN HO AERODROME TO-DAY. THE MACHINE WAS SO BADLY DAMAGED BY THE CRASH AND SUBSEQUENT FIRE THAT IT IS BEYOND REPAIR.

Colonel Ting Chi-hau, commanding officer of the First Air Squadron, and Paymaster-Colonel Kwan Wing, who were flying in the plane, managed to escape injury.

With Colonel Ting at the controls, the Douglas machine flew to the West River regions yesterday morning. When the airmen reached Samshui, engine trouble developed. Colonel Ting attempted to reach Canton, but the engine failed completely.

A forced landing was made on a hill near the Sze Shan railway station. The two airmen suffered from shock, but received no injury. They managed to crawl from the plane before it caught fire.

POLITICAL PARLEYS IN HONG KONG

Canton Leaders Call
On Hu Han-min

NANKING ATTITUDE
DISCUSSED

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday. General Li Chung-jen, Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Group Army in Kwangsi, is consulting Mr. Hu Han-min at Hong Kong and other retired military and political leaders connected with the defunct 19th Route Army concerning Canton-Nanking relations.

The circular telegram of September 25 urges the re-instatement of those politicians and military men excommunicated by the Kuomintang. Retired leaders in Hong Kong are seeking to interview General Li Chung-jen with a view to his resuming political life.

Mr. Hu Han-min is in favour of recalling those Kuomintang members who were dismissed from the Party because of their participation in the movement against the Central Authorities. In order to rally public support for the Canton cause Mr. Hu believes that any alliance via-a-vis Nanking should include these retired officials.

General Li Chung-jen may return to Kwangsi after seeing the leaders of various factions in Hong Kong. He will, however, come back to Canton, should the Hong Kong leaders have definite proposals to be submitted to officials here.

STATEMENT URGED. In a statement to the press, Mr. Hsiao Fu-chon, leading member of the South-west Political Council, said that the Central Authorities should at least make known whether the proposals of the South-west can be accepted instead of ignoring them entirely. Mr. Hsiao added that since Nanking is suppressing public opinion, delegates to the Fifth National Congress cannot freely express their opinion, but have to accept what is imposed on them.

ALIBI

By EDWARD ACHESON

LOOK here, Spike, I'm going to give you a break, Lord knows you don't deserve it, but I'm not behind this desk to see a man swing for something he didn't do."

Inspector Moorehouse lit a cigarette and glanced over at the dapper figure before him.

Spike smiled. He'd given his alibi. Moorehouse had tried busting his alibi before. Let him try again!

"Thanks, Chief—And you needn't write that down, Flat-foot," he said to the officer whose pencil moved evenly over his stenographic notes.

"He's writing everything down, Spike," the Inspector told him. "So I wouldn't answer without thinking, if I were you. Now, listen here—"

"I'm listening. But if you want to know where I was last night, you can read—"

"Wait! Strike that out, Jones. You're jumping on a trap-door right this minute, and you don't know it! I told you I'd give you a break; I don't want to see you swing for something you didn't do. Spike, Sergeant Morley was murdered last night!"

"Morley? Bumped off? I swear it, Chief—"

"I know that, Spike. But you've got to listen to me. You've put over some pretty fast ones in your day. You're good with your alibis. But you're a little too damned good! Some one's figured that out. Some one's let you alibi yourself right into a hell of a jam."

The Inspector tapped a file of papers in front of him. "Right here on my desk I've got enough to hang you. I have the statement of the night-clerk at the Brewer that you were in your room between eleven and one. We got a hold of Luigi this morning; he telephoned you at eleven-thirty and you were in your room. I have your own sworn statement that you were there. But I happen to know you weren't."

"Sure I was, Chief, I—"

"Shut up, Spike! Don't open your mouth! Morley's body was found this morning in the linen closet—on the fifth-floor of the Brewer. It was found about seven o'clock. Dr. Priestley says that as near as he can figure it, the man had been dead more than eight hours. Now, do you see how it works out? Some one, some one who knew about those alibis has let you swear yourself on to the spot. I've three statements including your own, that you were in from eleven to one. I can get twenty witnesses to the fact that you and Sergeant Morley weren't—shall we say—on the best of terms. Morley's skull was split open with a black-jack, no bullet tracing to clear you this time. Both you and Luigi knew that Morley'd been on your trail for two weeks. And your room is on the fifth floor!"

The Inspector sat back in his chair, watching the slow fear creep into Spike's eyes.

"It rather look as though some one, let's say Luigi, had pretty well hung it on you this time, Spike. And the D. A. can do the same thing, I assure you. Why, man, the case is in the bag!"

"It's frame-up Chief! Honest, I wasn't—"

"I know you weren't, Spike. That's what I've been telling you. But I've got your statement, and the others you rigged up. My hands are tied, if I go into court with those. And don't get the idea that I'm doing you a favour; I'll get you sooner or later. But I'll get you for something you did pull off. And I'll get you right! Remember that!"

"Now, do you want to make another statement covering the hours of, say, ten to midnight? It'll be easier if you come clean, Spike. You haven't time to fix up another story. And, anyway, the one you've got—I mean, the real one's pretty good, anyway. Because—well, there's a certain night watchman that might be able to help you out a bit. We finally got the gag out of his mouth." A suggestion of a smile played around the corners of the Inspector's mouth.

Spike sat silent, weighing his chances. Some one, most likely Luigi, had certainly hung this Morley thing right around his neck. The Chief seemed to have the dope on the Corcoran Street job. If he came clean it would only mean a rap of five or six years, illegal entry, assault, maybe. And the watchman could give him his alibi for that hour. That was enough. That was enough. That would clear him. Then he could turn State's evidence on the Morley thing! Luigi—there was no one else who knew how those statements would dovetail—Luigi thought he'd have the racket to himself, did he? Well, Luigi'd burn for it!

"All right, Chief, you're on. I pulled the Corcoran Street job."

The Inspector smiled. "That's better, Spike. I thought you'd see the wisdom in that course. Now, see if I have the main point in mind. You waited around Sam's until about ten-thirty. Then you slipped into the vestibule at Atwell's, and got the watchman on his third round. You black-jacked him, tied him up and gagged him. Is that right? Then you carried him to the office while you opened the safe. Right so far?"

You took the stuff back down to Sam's and turned it over to him. That was about twelve-twenty, wasn't it? You had some trouble with the safe?"

Spike grinned. "She's a tough 'un, Chief."

"Then that's about correct in the main, isn't it? It is? Right, Jones, just let Spike sign that. Better read it over, Spike. It'll come up in court."

Jones typed out the short statement and handed it to Spike. He read it carefully, read it again. Then he signed it and slipped it on to the Inspector's desk. "That's that, Chief."

"It is. Exactly, Spike, Sergeant Morley!"

The door opened. "Sir?"

"Take him away!"

"Morley! There was terror in Spike's voice. "He's dead!"

"Oh, no he's not!" The Inspector's mouth was drawn into one thin line. "I told you you wouldn't swing for something you hadn't done, Spike. Morley's all right. But the watchman choked too—death on that gack. Take him away, Sergeant!"

(The End.)

GIANT OCTOPUS CAUGHT

Attacks Fishing Boat In Red Sea

Alexandria.

A giant octopus, reported to measure over 60ft., attacked a 200-ton fishing boat in the Red Sea and nearly overturned it.

When pulling in their nets the fishermen thought they must be overflowing with fish.

Then they saw a huge dark mass rise from the sea and attach one of its tentacles to the side of the boat, which threatened to sink at any moment.

The situation was critical when a second boat came to the rescue and fired over 50 shots at the monster, which, however, appeared to be immune to bullets.

It continued to drag the boat with it in its struggles until a number of the crew, armed with axes, hacked off the tentacle.

The octopus then disappeared in the sea.

Paris. At the moment the attention turns to autumn clothes, summer clothes become really inevitable, says the Paris correspondent of an English paper. Purchasers of tweeds and jerseys, of felt berets and felt hats will find themselves comfortably stocked and, on occasion, well suited, but they are far more likely to find themselves in want of really summer clothing—another cotton dress, some more volles, some linen suits, while the tweeds and other woools may easily be in abeyance for another month or two. For mountains, for Scotland, wool is indicated, perhaps also for the cruises which everyone is supposed to take. But for the majority of occasions all the thin stuffs, supplemented with every kind of wool coat, including knitting, are indicated, and those who now provide themselves with one or two will not be long in proving their own wisdom.

Some Models

A Worth model is of white linen with a printed crepe overblouse. The beret also is white. This is a modified form of the swaggar coat, and the skirt can be worn with the blouse alone. Tied up at the neck, this gives the scarf-like appearance which seems indicated where suits are concerned. It is a loose, cool, comfortable attire which can be greatly varied with a change of blouse. The majority of dresses have perhaps a little coat which not only finishes them off but which varies them in form and colour.

dian mink fur from one hundred and eighty-nine guineas upwards.

Slimming Lines

The new fur coats are designed to give the wearer a slim outline. They are loose but straight. However, the owner of a fared fur coat can easily have this transformed into a new model (at special summer prices) by Bradley's. In any case, good furs always repay attention in the shape of brushing and cleaning at this time of the year.

Collars are flat and tailored, some coats have either a short cravat attached at the neck or a longer scarf which can be tied in a bow. Full and three-quarter length models are seen. Sleeves are usually plain and cuffless, some are full at the back of the elbow thence plain to the wrist.

Natural Curly Hair For Mary Queen Of Scots

A TWENTIETH century hair-dresser has discovered that Mary Queen of Scots had naturally curly hair. The Queen was very interested to hear this on her visit to the Hon. Mrs. Ernest Guinness's house recently, when a great treasure of the family, a lock of Mary Queen of Scots, hair was on view. Of a light chestnut colour this precious lock was recently taken to a Mayfair salon to be washed and arranged on the little yellowed scrap of paper on which its history is written. Immediately after washing, the lock curled up naturally.

White Stuffs And Ivory In Demand

DEEP CREAM FROCK

WHITE stuffs and Ivory of every kind are much in demand just now. Many of them are synthetic, have a beautiful tone, and need the most careful ironing if they are not to dissolve into something strangely unlike themselves.

A deep cream frock may be varied with a little hip-yoke, and pointed epaulets which carry out the idea. With the plain materials, coloured coats of all kinds are worn, some of them of the blazer variety, but others simply in printed voile or other thin material which really makes only a trimming for a plain frock.

PRINTED CREPE DRESS

KILTINGS of printed crepe in red, black and white border the foldover diagonal drapery of the skirt of the printed crepe dress, which in its smart outdoor presentation has a caped white crepe coat with pleated frilling on its cape.

CIVIL SERVANTS LOSE AT HOME

BUT RECREIO FAIL TO TAKE OPPORTUNITY

BOWLS SEASON CONCLUDES

LOSING to Kowloon Dockers by 52 shots to 49, the Club de Recreio failed to alter their position as fourth in the Lawn Bowls League table in their final game of the competition yesterday. The Civil Service, who are third, also faltered in their final game, losing at home to the K.C.C. by seven shots.

Taikoo Dockers, however, defeated the strong Craigengower "G" team by 77 shots to 52, thereby improving their standing from seventh to fifth to provide the only change in the senior league table.

The junior division leaders remained unchanged from last week, the K.H.G.C. stemming the challenge of the Police for runners-up position by defeating the Footbatters, to lead by one point. The Yachtsmen maintained their position as fourth with a narrow victory over the Electricians by the least possible margin.

The Civil Service C.C. and Yacht Club have yet to meet for the final game of the season. The result of the first meeting resulted in a win for the Civil Service by 61 shots to 52.

Six shots were recorded by R. Bana's C.C.C. "A" rink against A. R. Clarke's Police rink, and by J. Hollidge's C.S.C.C. rink against E. C. Fincher's K.C.C. rink.

OPEN CHANCES IN INTERPORT POLO MATCH

Both Teams Obviously Out Of Practice

SHANGHAI MOUNTS BETTER BUT UNFIT

The chances for the Keswick Cup Interport Polo match, which takes place at the Polo Ground, Causeway Bay, to-morrow evening 5 o'clock, are considered to be fairly open, although, judging by the trial chukkers played at Causeway Bay yesterday afternoon, neither of the teams are really fit for an Interport match.

The Shanghai four were in action for the first time since the day of their arrival and, although they appeared individually to be fairly good players, there was very little team-work about their play. The chukkers yesterday, which were composed of a mixture of local and Shanghai players, all presented the impression of four players chasing the ball rather than a team playing polo.

The Hong Kong players were obviously out of practice, owing to the continuous rains having made the polo ground unfit for play so frequently this summer. The amount of mis-hitting yesterday, and missing altogether, especially among the Interport players, was far above what would be expected two days before an Interport match, while many of the hits recorded went wide of the goal posts.

Pony Difference
There is a great difference in the quality of the ponies of the two sides. The Shanghai mounts are all pure bred China ponies, of the "Y" class, while the Hong Kong mounts are all cross-bred "Z" class ponies.

The local ponies are rather faster when they get going, but the Shanghai mounts are quicker off the mark and handier in a melee.

Balanced against this, however, is the fact that the visiting team's mounts have not yet recovered from their journey to Hong Kong, and are rather out of condition.

Forrest Suttelle, the new Shanghai player, who captained the victorious American team in the recent International Tourney in the North, gave an impressive display at back. Although a mere youth, he is a big man, rides hard, and hits hard, but his obvious lack of practice told against him yesterday.

Keswick's Shine
John Keswick was perhaps the most outstanding visitor. His play was careful, while his hitting was more accurate than that of the majority of the players. His brother, W. J. Keswick, who will play for Hong Kong, gave a similarly good display.

J. L. Jordan, who is leading the Hong Kong line-up, was below form. He played a particularly hard game in every chukker in which he turned out, but his hitting at times was slightly inaccurate, while, on several occasions, he was out of position. (Continued on Page 15)

AQUATIC GALA NEXT SATURDAY

The Chung Shing Benevolent Society will hold their second swimming gala of the season at the Society's bathing beach, Kennedy Town, next Saturday, commencing at 7 p.m. Prizes will be presented by Mr. Wong Hing-Kwong.

CHARACTERISTIC SLIP CATCHES AND FORCEFUL BATTING

Duckitt's Bad Luck When Set

DULL CRICKET TRIAL

The fielding of Harry Owen Hughes, who took two characteristic catches in the slips to dismiss the Rest's opening batsmen and his later display of perfectly timed hooking, which enabled him to score 42 out of 65, were the features of the final Interport Trial at the K.C.C. yesterday.

The prospective Colony team, with nine wickets in hand, wound up a dull afternoon's play only 28 runs in arrears of the Rest total. Play will be resumed today at 11.45 a.m.

Deprived of the services of Tom Hayward, who was indisposed, and skippered by Eric Mitchell in his absence, the Rest batsmen cut a sorry picture on a slow-wicket that, however, took spin. Duckitt was unlucky to play on to his wicket after scoring 20 out of 25, and Stewart was the only other batsman to offer any resistance, carrying his bat for 27, scored out of 45. Minu "bowed" exceptionally well for his 4 for 21 in 15 overs.

Elvin succeeded in tempting Baines out of his ground, but this was the only success the Rest bowlers secured. Owen Hughes hooking each one in turn to reach the boundary on eight occasions.

The opposing bowlers, though having the advantage of a faster wicket, were obviously too weak to offer any semblance of a trial for the Colony batsmen.

FOUR GOALS IN LAST 10 MINUTES

SOUTH CHINA BEAT LINCOLNS

POLICE SHARE TEN GOALS WITH ATHLETIC

ARTILLERY SURPRISE

THE REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF THE CLUB, WHO, AIDED MAINLY BY POTE-HUNT AND HOWE, SUCCEEDED IN SCORING FOUR GOALS IN THE LAST TEN MINUTES TO BEAT ST. JOSEPH'S, LAST YEAR'S PREMIER LEAGUE RUNNERS-UP, BY 5 GOALS TO 4 WAS THE OUTSTANDING FEATURE OF THE OPENING OF THE 1934-5 SOCCER SEASON YESTERDAY.

On a day in which 79 goals were scored in the 15 matches, two players were ordered off, one from Kowloon and the other from the Navy, and two players were injured, South China "B" clearly demonstrated their stern challenge by defeating the Lincolns in a close match.

THE EASTERN ATHLETIC SURPRISED THE BORDERERS. THE NEWCOMERS SECURING A POINT AFTER THE SOLDIERS HAD SCORED FIRST. THE CHINESE POLICE TEAM WERE, PERHAPS, A LITTLE UNFORTUNATE TO LOSE THEIR DEBUT GAME BY THE ODD GOAL TO THE EAST LANCES, WHILE THE RAILWAY CLUB WERE ROUTED BY THE BORDERERS WHO SCORED EIGHT TIMES WITHOUT REPLY.

SOUTH CHINA WIN OVER THE LINCOLNS AFTER GOAL DOWN

Maintain Fast Pace In Hot Sun

HIGGINS SUPERBS IN GOAL

Before a moderate crowd, the Lincolns lost their first match of the season to South China "B" by 2 goals to 1.

South China set off at a terrific pace, and during the first ten minutes had things pretty well their own way, during which period Higgins was called on to save a number of hot shots, but the Lincolns' custodian was right on top of his form. Higgins gave a superb display, and undoubtedly saved the Lincolns from being at least two or three goals down in the first half.

Once the Lincolns had settled down, however, they gave the spectators an exhibition of splendid football, and Wong was severely tested on numerous occasions. On two occasions he was defeated, but the ball struck the crossbar and rebounded into play.

South China's Strength
Young and Lal, were very dangerous, and were a constant source of anxiety to the Lincolns defenders, but Steans and Edmundson weathered the storm well. The winners' halves did not perform any too well in the first half, but the backs, Yu and Chung, easily made up for their mistakes. Clean tackling, good anticipation, and first-time clearances were blended in a rock-like defence, while Wong inspired confidence with his methods of dealing with all manner of shots.

The Lincolns forwards gave a sparkling display in the first half. The inside trio, McGuinness, Malpass and Riddley being very clever indeed, and they should have had at least three goals before the interval. Both Malpass and McGuinness had atrocious luck when, with Wong beaten, their efforts struck the bar.

Apart from Rodger, only two of the Club's team, on yesterday's play, deserve the title of "footballer"—they were Pote-Hunt and Howe.

Pote Hunt was the perfect centre half, he worked hard and continuously, his seemingly effortless passes to the forward line always reaching their objective. In constructive and destructive work he was superb, that his passes did not materialise in goals was a pity.

K.C.C. Beat Club

Playing on a soft H.K.C.C. wicket, the Kowloon Cricket Club defeated the Hong Kong Cricket Club by seven wickets yesterday.

CLUB STAGE MAGNIFICENT RALLY TO WIN

Four Goals In Last Ten Minutes

HOWE AND POTE-HUNT PLAY INSPIRED GAME

Fortified by the great display of sheer grit and determination on the part of Howe and Pote Hunt, the Club rallied in the final stages, when they were losing by 4-1, to beat St. Joseph's by the odd goal in nine at Caroline Hill yesterday, four of the Club's goals being scored in the last ten minutes of play, and three of them coming from Howe.

Until the latter part of the game St. Joseph's was undoubtedly the better team. They were faster, better tacticians, and played cleverer football. Although the goals scored, five and four goals, respectively, do not help their averages, neither Rodger or Lim have nothing to worry about. They both proved excellent custodians and the shots which resulted in goals would have caused anxiety in first-class Home football. Rodger must be singled out for praise. He played remarkably well, saving difficult shots time and again with apparent ease. On yesterday's play Rodger should not fear opposition for Interport honours again this year.

The Bird Challenge Cup was retained by the First Kowloon Troop (St. Andrews) who recorded 18 points, while the President's Cup, for runners-up, was retained by the Sea Scouts who secured 11 points. The Akela Cup for Wolf Cubs was won by the Second Hong Kong. The previous holders, St. Andrews, failed to gain a point.

At the conclusion of the meeting the prizes were distributed by Mrs. Poxan, while Mr. R. Dormer, acting Commissioner, presented a warrant to Mr. W. W. Scott, the Scout Master of the Sea Scouts.

The results were as follows:—
1. L. Edmund (2nd H.K.)
2. R. Thompson (12th K.)
Time: 20.15 secs.

STELLA WALSH IN COLONY

Holder Of 3 World Track Marks

TO COMPETE IN JAPAN

Holder of the women's world athletic records for 80 metres, 100 metres, and 200 metres, Miss Stanislaw Walasiewicz, or better known as Stella Walsh, arrived in Hong Kong yesterday by the s.s. Haruna Maru.

It will be recalled that this Polish sprint ace refused American citizenship on the eve of the 1932 Olympiad, preferring to run under Poland's colours. She won the 100 metres from Hilda Strike (Canada) in 11 9/10 secs.

She has been invited to Japan by the Japanese Women's Athletic Federation, and a schedule has been arranged as follows:

She will make her first appearance on the track at Osaka on October 14; October 20 a repeat performance; October 24, at Nagaya; October 27, at Tokyo.

At the first three meets Miss Walsh hopes to attack sprint records and at the last meet in Tokyo to lower her long distance marks.

Miss Walsh has come through from Europe with the Japanese women athletes who took part in the Women's World Olympics in London this summer.

The nine members of the Japanese Women's Athletic team are accompanied by Mr. T. Kinoshita, of Japan's Women's Athletic Federation. Mr. C. Nambu, the world's champion Long Jumper and holder of the Hop, Step and Jump record, is also on this steamer going back to Japan. His foot is now better, but he will undergo an operation when he reaches home.

OF IMPORTANCE TO MOTHERS — SOME "KLIM" FACTS

The casein (the curd of milk) of KLIM precipitates in fine, soft, friable curds which are easily digested and assimilated. The value of such is indicated by the fine curd characteristic of breast milk.

In the Klim spray process the large fat globules of the fresh milk are broken into very small globules, THUS EXPOSING A LARGER SURFACE for digestion and assimilation.

These advantages undoubtedly account for the better growth curves obtained with Klim. A famous pediatricist found that on the average, children gained weight faster on Klim.

KLIM is a product of the Borden Co. known as the largest manufacturers of milk products in the world. It is your assurance of a food of the highest integrity.

A GIRL BEFORE THE MAST

Feminine View Of Life On A Windjammer

Imparts A New Code And New Ideals

(By PAMELA BOURNE)

ONE bell! The second mate is already in my cabin lighting the lamp. He does this not out of kindness, but because he does not want to call me a second time.

"Get up, Nils," he says briskly. "It's raining. It's freshening. The mizzen royal bust just after six bells."

With which pleasant news he is gone. Nothing but a lad, the second, with pink cheeks and a sweet smile, a little shy, but always businesslike.

It is easy to turn out of the high bunk for Herzogin Cecilie sails with a heavy list, and I am already almost tipped out on the lee side. Bitter weather reigns on deck.

It takes five minutes, which practice has made leisurely, to put on socks, sea boots, several sweaters of unknown vintage, and a sheepskin waistcoat, and to clamber up to the chart room, where the chief, on whose watch I am, is peering at the falling barometer and tying the strings of his sou'-wester. I disentangle my olivians from the sodden agglomeration on the hook and take a look at the log book.

"Forty-eight," says the chief. "Forty-five?" I suggest. When the second comes in he writes "Forty-seven" in the log book, which means that the Herzogin is doing over eleven knots.

Nosing For Cape Horn
The night is dark. The torrents of water swishing from weather to lee scuppers on the foredeck are as-sparkle with phosphorescence. The rigging of the great four-masted barque, towering and murmurous, looms blacker than the blackness of heaven above us. Every block is singing its own note in the hard westerly weather.

We are nosing towards the Horn, far south in the forties and fifties of latitude. It is winter here, and we are terribly alone—perhaps the only ship in that vast ocean south of the Antipodes. The port watch has just finished oiling and reprospent an hour walking the deck absorbing the sight and sound of her.

Trip To The Rigging
For some time my lot was to scrape and paint the windlass and the pump. I was at them so long that I grew quite fond of the unresponsive iron. Some boys were always set to make chaffingear. I happened to be quite nippy at this, and often found myself in the gloomy but cosy sail room.

When first I was sent up into the rigging I thought I was either in heaven or in hell. It was so lovely and so terrible. Six o'clock in the morning: raining, blowing; gaskets to be made fast on the fore lower 'gallant yard.

I could not find the gaskets and had but a vague idea of what they were like. While clinging to the end of the upper 'gallant yard I found that strange, outlandish curses were coming from my lips. Perhaps they were the echoes of thirty years of swearing in every European language by men, many dead now, who could not find gaskets or make fast the sail on that lofty yard.

Wash Appreciated
Soon I had a great affection for the rigging, much as a man has for the green fields about his home where he takes his walks with his dog. In the soft summer weather of the Atlantic I used to go for walks in the rigging. I couldn't take a dog, and I hadn't got a monkey.

Being a girl, and living this unusual life, I used to ask myself whether all the feminine hullabaloo one goes in for ashore is really necessary to happiness. I have never been so happy as when I was on watch, though it meant hard work and no time for looks, clothes, or polite conversation.

But how I appreciated the quart of water I washed in, the feel of a very occasional clean singlet, and the snatches of familiar talk with my companions! We lived in brotherly and comfortable fashion. It was rather like a nursery aft; for everyone was between 20 and 30.

They called me Nils. I got my share of kicks and scoldings, but then, too, I shared all the exaltation of these young men's profession. They knew me at my very worst and at my best, and I them; and we accepted each other. Life became so amplified that it was a joy to live it.

PEAK RESIDENTS ARE FINED $1 SEQUEL TO ROWDY PARTY COMPLAINT

NO REFLECTION ON CHARACTER

"I gathered from the Crown Solicitor that this is a test case. It seems to me rather a storm in a tea-cup," remarked Mr. E. W. Hamilton in giving judgment in the Peak Disturbance Case, in which he fined Messrs. G. W. Sewell, H. C. Mecke and A. L. Sullivan $1.00 each, at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday morning.

"Mr. Sewell has adopted the rather tragic attitude about the reflection cast upon him. All I can say is that I do not conceive it possible that anyone who knows the facts can consider that any reflection has been cast upon the moral character of the defendants," he continued.

Mr. Hamilton's judgment was delivered, as follows:—

The section No. 13 of Ordinance 40 of 1932 under which this charge is brought is, as the defence pointed out, very comprehensive, and, if invariably invoked, might catch a great many parties, both on the Peak and elsewhere. However, its wording seems to me clear, and the fact that it was re-enacted in the New Ordinance only two years ago shows that the Legislature do not regard it as old legislation now unnecessary. Reference has been made in this case to what may generally be termed the ordinary comity which should be shown in neighbourly relations.

I cannot help thinking that this section is meant to deal with cases where this comity is not observed, which unhappily is the case here. However, that may be, the case has been brought and I am bound to hear and decide it.

WORD CALCULATED
The word "calculated" is explained in the Oxford Dictionary as, one, reckoned, estimated, devised with forethought, two, fitted, suited, fit, apt, of a nature or character proper or likely to. In my opinion the second sense of the word must be taken here. The Dictionary quotes as illustration "a circumstance calculated to excite strong suspicion." I cannot think the section means to use the first sense, and there is no such suggestion against the defendants.

SYMPATHY VOICED
Considering the defence, I might say that, upon the facts disclosed before me, I feel considerable sympathy with the defendants up to a certain point. They were having a cheerful party such as people have given, and giving and will give all over the Colony.

Doubtless in many cases annoyance is caused, but I think a telephone call should precede a policeman.

Still, Mr. King gave his reasons and was within his rights. But, even if upset and annoyed, I think that the defendants should have realised they were causing disturbance of tranquillity, and should have successfully removed the ground of complaint. I have to decide whether they did or not.

I am quite sure that all the defendants think they were speaking the truth. Indeed the discrepancies of their stories are just what one would expect if people are unexpectedly asked to describe in detail what happened during the period of which they were taking no particular notice.

They all indicated the noise was less after Sub-Inspector Kirby's arrival, and was not calculated to disturb. It is their power of assessing this fact, and not their veracity which I doubt.

The offence has two parts. Its initial commission inside the house at No. 286, and its consummation, when, in No. 302, the noise woke Mr. Ross up. As Mr. Sullivan very aptly said—it is difficult to assess volume of sound. Evidence of what the sound effected seems to me a better criterion of its disturbing nature than the opinion of the people making it.

UNCALLED WITNESSES
A point was taken by the defence that certain persons both named and unnamed should have been called. The prosecution might just as well comment on the fact that though two male and female guests (Continued on Page 13.)

Back To Civilization

One hundred and nineteen days out from Wallaroo we came to Falmouth for orders. I put on a dress, a little lip-stick, and a large hat and went ashore with the captain. After completing the ship's business, we enjoyed ourselves hugely wandering round the quaint little town, buying a few necessities as well as goldfish, pink ribbon, and Cornish cream.

The taste of the shore was good, but the taste of the ship was better. Our orders for Belfast came that evening. But before the hustle of setting sail began, the chief said very seriously to me:

"You know, Nils, compared to all those girls who came aboard to-day, you're pretty. Not so bad at all. I hadn't realised it. Now you can go up into the main rigging and unfurl sails. And don't you get conceited," his expression added.

It breaks my heart to leave Herzogin. She is one of the loveliest things I ever set eyes upon. I must remember all my days marvellous visions of her in storm and breeze and calm. She has also given me a new code, new ideals, and the most vivid living of my life.

Tourism

AMONGST the suggestions made by the unofficial members of the Legislative Council that would bring grist to the mill by increasing the income of Hong Kong one of the most useful was the plea made by the Hon. C. G. S. Mackie for greater attractions and more welcome to visitors. It is also a line of development that might well receive the most careful examination from the Economic Commission. We are all pretty well agreed that we do not want a Municipality in the ordinary sense of the word, with a new set of officials and a divided authority, probably occupying most of its time in controversy with the Colonial Government. But there is a certain limitation of imagination which prevents the Government from realising that some useful functions, performed by municipalities do not get attended to at all in Hong Kong. The history of the Town Hall, and the present absence of anything of the sort can be quoted to dispense with any further examples.

Only within our own generation has the possible value of geographical publicity been realised by municipalities. Many have started admirable Tourist Bureaux, and practically inaugurated a new industry by attracting visitors and making them feel that they were not merely looked upon as a source of income by a few shopkeepers, but were welcomed and looked after by the community. There ought to be a kiosk or office in a prominent place where all useful information can be had. It is fatal to lay traps to catch the unwary rich; the man with only a few dollars to spend is far more numerous and ought to receive impartial or benevolent advice on how to make his money go as far as possible. We should not have to go beyond the Far East to find an excellent model in the Japan Tourist Bureau, and here the organisation would be infinitely more simple, as only one centre would be necessary. Such a Bureau should have an illustrated Guidebook, constantly brought up to date, with correct time tables of buses and trams and trains, and taxi fares, and hotel charges, and daily information as to accommodation, available at Hotels and Boarding Houses. It should be a convenient place to get on to the telephone and engage a room at a Cinema or Concert, and to learn what sporting or athletic events were coming off. A little politeness goes a very long way with total strangers who, when they return to their homes, will give the place a good name, and encourage their friends to follow their example.

If any stay-at-home reader has doubts about the natural attractions of Hong Kong, that is only proof of the deadening effect of familiarity. The drives round the Island or round the New Territories have few equals in any part of the world. The same depreciation of scenery that has grown to be familiar has prevented the opening up of views that once known are recognised to be the equals of much vaunted resorts. All that is needed is the right man, with ideas and enterprise, enjoying his work. It is a great mistake to say that the hotels and shops should organise themselves. If not a Government Agency, the Bureau should at least be under Government supervision and backing, for only so can the requisite independence be secured. No sectional interest can be expected to give a fair deal to rivals.

In England during the current year there has been an increase of more than half a million tourists, and the whole Hotel industry is feeling the beneficial effects of the invasion, combined with the greater custom brought by the still growing popularity of the motor car. A most eloquent contrast is provided by the complaints of the hotels in France. Four years ago France used to be visited by four million travellers a year, and success created the feeling that this source of revenue could be relied on without any special care to cultivate it. Hotel charges were increased, and a tax was imposed on tourists, and cases of pilfering from luggage or of total loss of luggage became a scandal which even provoked diplomatic protests. Last year the total had fallen to one million, and many once popular hotels were not opened at all; many others only for a month or so. What is of even worse omen, many of the best restaurants have met the loss of revenue by lowering their standard, and it will be difficult to recover the old connection. One of the means adopted by the Nazi propagandists to reduce Austria to a humble state of mind was to cut off the tourist traffic by imposing a heavy tax at the frontier; and nothing roused more resentment. It has been calculated that even the tripper class that comes in large parties spends an average of five pounds sterling in a visit.

We are convinced that a little attention to tourists would produce a rich harvest both of money and goodwill.

DEATH

KEW.—On September 29, 1934, at his residence, No. 10, Castle Terrace, Hong Kong, Charles H. W. Kew, aged 67. Funeral will pass the Monument at 4.30 p.m. to-day.

THE REPRIEVE APPEAL

A few weeks ago we dissented with all due respect from the arguments used by Bishop Hall in favour of the total abolition of the capital sentence, but in regard to the petition for the reprieve of Keung Chi-pan, who was condemned to death for the murder of a young woman at Shamshuipo, we agree with him that there are circumstances warrant consideration for the exercise of the Crown's prerogative of mercy. There is just a week during which the petition which is being prepared can be signed; and in view of the public interest shown in the last petition, it would be deplorable if less notice were taken of a case in which more can be said in extenuation for the convicted man, while he has far fewer friends to say it.

With the Bishop's abstract arguments against capital punishment we still disagree. Bishop Hall says that an authority has analysed the evidence in a large number of cases, and come to the conclusion that only in a small proportion would the fear of punishment have been a deterrent. Even if the analysis of motive were correct, which would be hard to prove, the argument is irrelevant. All these cases were of murder actually committed, and the statistics could not possibly include the cases in which it had in a moment of anger been entertained as a thought, and dismissed. In cases of Grievous Bodily Harm it is quite common to find some such threat as "I'll wring his neck if I swing for it," is used in anger; but if some timely interference gives an opportunity for the first wild passion to effervesce, there is a drop in the willingness to swing.

We are all against summary shooting by the police; but that is due to a breakdown of the Judicial or Prison system. Let there be a fair trial. But when primitive passions have been roused; there is always danger of primitive revenge. We are agreed that any community is justified in protecting itself from a disciplined invader; why not from an individual who sets out to wage private war on society? Why should society deal tenderly with a man like John Dillinger? His immunity led in quite a short time to imitation by others of less notoriety, whose crimes disturbed the security on which the happiness of ordinary life depends.

Abstract arguments would not probably lead most people to differ on particular cases; and in the case of Keung, who was not a hardened criminal at all, we hope there will be a big petition.

AIRMINDEDNESS NOW INSPIRED

GLIMMER OF HOPE FROM BUDGET SPEECHES

GOVERNMENT ASSURANCE

(By Our Aviation Correspondent.)

TO those who have striven for considerable periods to popularise the idea that commercial aviation is vital and necessary to the Colony of Hong Kong, as well as to the remainder of the British Empire, His Excellency the Governor's remarks, which were called forth in reply to the excellent arguments on this subject, brought up by both the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie and the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell at the Legislative Council Meeting, discussing the Budget, on Thursday, will give more hope than any official statement has given for many months past.

These remarks were very gratifying, particularly coming on the top of the more than gloomy outlook given by the statement in Sir. Thomas Southorn's speech at the first reading of the Budget, that commercial aviation subsidies were not being estimated.

I have previously stressed frequently enough that the main thing in this connection is for the British Government to reach an amicable agreement with China, regarding permission to fly over portions of China, and, although one had a suspicion that something might be going forward in the matter, with due regard for the necessity for official reference on diplomatic questions, one rather felt that the public might have been given some little information as to what has been done or whether anything has been done at all.

Governor Gives Hope

His Excellency said that the matter of an Air Mail Service to and from the Colony is regarded by the Government, both here and at Home, as being of the utmost importance.

That is a good thing to know for, hitherto, from information available, it might not even have been considered.

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Craigengower C.C. retained the championship of the senior division Lawn Bowls League by defeating the Kowloon Dockers R.C. by 58 shots to 56 on the K.C.C. green.

J. R. Johnstone won the 100 Yards swimming championship of the Colony in 59 1/5 secs. at the V.R.C. gala, defeating W. Lawrence, whose time was 61 2/5 secs. Lawrence, however, won the 50 Yards championship in 27 1/6 secs., beating Leung Sui-man.

The Portuguese Company won the Aggregate Cup at the annual Volunteer Defence Corps athletic sports held at the K.C.C. The prizes were distributed by Lady Clementi, wife of H. E. the Governor, Sir Cecil Clementi.

By this, I presume, although nothing definite was stated, that the Government are giving serious attention to the negotiations with China, which have been the cause of the hold-up in the procession to date.

Hong Kong Personalities

M. SOULANGE-TEISSIER.

This is the ninth of the exclusive "Sunday Herald" series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konyo, the talented Hungarian artist.

M. SOULANGE-TEISSIER, the newly-appointed Consul of France in Hong Kong, has now taken complete control of the local Consulate, with which he first came in contact in 1907, as Acting French Consul. Since then he has been here on several occasions, the last being in 1932, when he was also Acting Consul. After wanderings in the French Consular Service, which has covered almost every coastal town in China, and have reached as far away as Korea, M. Teissier is overjoyed finally to be settled in Hong Kong, a place for which he has always had the greatest regard, both from the point of view of the Colony itself and the kind and generous treatment he has received when here. Apart from China, M. Teissier's duties, since his first visit to Hong Kong, kept him in the Foreign Office in Paris for a considerable period.

FOOCHOW EXPERIENCES

Among the places in China in which M. Teissier has represented his Government have been Canton, Swatow, Amoy, Foochow, Shanghai, Peking, Chefoo, Tientsin and Southern Korea, and, strangely enough, in all that time the only disturbance of the peace he has experienced was the recent trouble in Foochow, in which port he was stationed prior to coming to Hong Kong.

Those last few weeks in Foochow, when the danger of the Red advance was imminent, were days of grave anxiety, especially when the attacking forces came within 10 miles of the city on one occasion, and within six miles a week later.

RACING DAYS

Apart from that M. Teissier has been exceptionally lucky, and on several occasions he has been sent to a port where trouble has been in progress, to find that it had subsided when he arrived. During the whole of the Great War, M. Teissier was stationed in China.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 123.

A Rare Bird

On Saturday 22 a halt was made at Tai Wai (before Sha Tin station), the railway embankment was crossed and a trip made to the wooded valleys behind Kak Tin. A single Grey Wagtail, Motacilla cinerea caesia was seen, the second of this species this month but no Streak-eyed Wagtail, M. ocularis. With one exception all the birds seen were common residents. The exception consisted of a party of Flower-peckers.

Only once before have we identified a Flower-pecker in the Territories and that record consisted of a single Chinese Scarlet-backed Flower-pecker, Dicaeum cruentatum, seen in the Shing Mun Valley on Jan. 11th of last year. At Kak Tin it was the same species. This species is only about three inches in length, in the male the upper parts are scarlet except the tail which is black the wings are also black with a bluish iridescence, the underparts are pale fulvous. The female is olive grey with scarlet on the upper tail coverts and below is paler than the male appearing almost whitish. The party included both males and females; the birds were hovering around a branch covered with an epiphytic orchid, Sarcocaulis teretifolia, at the top of a tall mango tree. They appeared more like hawk moths than birds and made us think of Humming-birds. With the Flower-peckers were some Tits, which looked large in comparison, and some Crested Bulbuls which even further accentuated the diminutive size of these brightly coloured birds. Flower-peckers live on insects and seeds which they, as a rule, obtain from flowers at the tops of tall trees. We have never come across any reference in the literature to this bird hovering, and at first this action suggested Sunbirds, but Sunbirds have longer beaks and are differently coloured and we have, as yet, no record of any Sunbird seen in Hong Kong. This Flower-pecker breeds in south Kwangtung and the presence of a party of birds in the Colony suggests the possibility that this species breeds here. Vaughan and Jones state that the nest is "usually placed at the end of a branch and high up." It is pear-shaped about 4 inches in length with the entrance hole half way down the side. In India the nest is "generally built in mango-trees" and it is suggestive that the birds we saw were in the immediate vicinity of a mango-tree.

Peak Flowers

The most conspicuous flowering tree on the Peak now is Itus hypoleuca referred to last week, its large terminal Spiraea-like inflorescences are very noticeable. A cultivated shrub, which has become naturalised in places, namely Ilthicus mutabilis, is also in flower. When the flowers open in the early morning they are almost white but they gradually change in colour, at mid-day they are pink and when they close in the evening they are deep pink. Of climbing plants two species are conspicuous Ipomoea palmata with pale purple flowers, some varieties are almost white, and Thunbergia alata, the so-called Black-eyed Susan. This south African plant is now common throughout the tropics of Asia, the flowers are orange or yellow with, or without, a deep purple-black centre. Of herbaceous plants we noticed the Bamboo orchid, the Buttercup orchid, the Phantom orchid and the Hong Kong hairbell (Platyodon grandiflorus). One other conspicuous flower was seen, namely that of a parasite called Aeginetia indica. The plant is a parasite on the roots of grasses and ferns, it has no leaves but in the summer months develops one or more yellowish brown and wiry flower stalks each bearing a single low-sided flower, white, cream or yellow heavily marked with purple inside. It is the only member of the family Orobanchaceae, (to which belong the Broom-rapes and Toothwort of England), found in the Colony.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER OF INSPECTOR GOURLAY

Mr. David Arthur Gourlay, a former chief inspector of the Hong Kong Police Force, who retired in 1915, died at Moray House, Craik, Scotland, on August 16 this year, at the age of 65 years, leaving a widow.

Mr. Gourlay joined the Hong Kong Police Force in 1891 when he transferred from the Dundee Police Force, and was promoted to sergeant in 1896, and third class inspector in 1898.

He was decorated at the Jubilee by King Edward, who was then the Prince of Wales, in 1897. In 1906 he received the medal and certificate of the Royal Humane Society for bravery when he rescued the crew of a sampan which was in great danger during the terrible typhoon in 1906, the sampan was dashed against the rocks near Observatory Pier. The presentation was made by Sir Mathew Nathan, then Governor.

Mr. Gourlay had many interesting bouts with pirates, the outstanding one being in 1900 when the To Kwa Wan pirates attacked two junks in Kowloon Bay. At that time he was in charge of the Water Police Station. After a short fight, 16 pirates were arrested, and tried at the Supreme Court, where one of the party was sentenced to 10 years' hard labour for assaulting the inspector, and the others received sentences of seven years' each.

For this work, Inspector Gourlay and the other officers were awarded $25 each by the Chief Justice. Inspector Gourlay was also an outstanding figure in dealing with fires and was instrumental in the arrest of a Chinese who had set fire to many places in Hollywood Road, causing 16 persons to lose their lives.

In 1911 he was bowls champion of the Colony. When he retired on December 1, 1915, he was presented with a silver cup from the Indian police, among whom he was very popular. The Hon. Mr. McI. Messer, then Captain Superintendent of Police, presented it, at the Indians' request, at the Central Police Station.

POPULAR KOWLOON GIRL WEDS

Braga-Franks At St. Andrew's

"STILL IS THE NIGHT" PLAYED ON VIOLIN AND ORGAN

One of Kowloon's most popular personalities, Miss Maude Caroline Braga, the second daughter of the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, J. P. and Mrs. Braga, was married yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Church, to Mr. Eric Stanley Franks, the third son of Mr. T. B. Franks and Mrs. Franks, of Crystal Palace, London.

The Rev. J. R. Higgins officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. John Braga, brother of the bride, and Mr. Rupert Baldwin played "Still is the Night" on the violin and organ.

The bride, who was accompanied by her bridesmaids, the Misses Jenn and Caroline Braga, and little Miss "Poppy" Arnold as flower-girl, looked very charming in a "Eunice" modelled gown of silk satin trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses made by Mrs. H. W. Fraser.

The bridesmaids were dressed of lemon and blue organdy, modelled in Tudor style, and carried bouquets of African daisies. The flower-girl wore a dress of pink georgette trimmed with lace.

Mrs. W. H. Fraser, wearing a dress of lemon georgette with a black crinoline hat, and a bouquet of gladioli, was Matron of Honour; while Mr. Fraser acted as best man. The bride was given away by her elder brother, Mr. Jack Braga, while Mr. Clement Braga, another brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Claremont Hotel, Mr. Jack Braga, toasting the health and happiness of the bride and groom. Mr. Fraser also offered a toast to the bridesmaids.

The honeymoon is being spent in Cheung Chau.

BAGGAGE PORTERS FINED

Nuisance At Kowloon Ferry Pier

The nuisance of self-appointed porters who wait their opportunity to carry baggage at the Star Ferry Pier and the Railway Station, Kowloon, was commented on this morning by Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy, when he sentenced five coolies to three weeks' hard labour each, with options of fines of $15.

"You come down here to make a living and annoy passengers by snatching at their luggage," he remarked.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE

Chinese Returns From Banishment

"The No. 1 coolie, for whom I used to work, wrote me a letter asking me to return to the Colony," was the excuse given by Tse Kau, a 29-year-old coolie who was charged before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, for returning to the Colony from banishment on September 28.

"Does your friend think that he has the authority to allow you to return after we have banished you?" asked Mr. Wynne Jones.

Defendant: "He did not know that I had been banished."

Mr. Wynne Jones: "No, but you did."

Sentence of nine months' hard labour was imposed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

LADIES' BENEVOLENT SOCIETY

(To the Editor, the "Sunday Herald.")

Sir,—Recently I read the correspondence in your paper by "Rapid Rapper" regarding our Ladies' Benevolent Society.

Public response in Hong Kong is so timid in almost any good thing that it seems that as usual a suggestive correspondence is relegated and left to the fate of an mort natural.

Cannot we shake up a bit and show a little appreciation by lending a wee bit of assistance to those ladies who are toiling so hard to alleviate sufferings?

If a thousand men could pledge a fixed sum of say a dollar a month—how it would ease the financial worries of those ministering angels. What does a dollar mean to a man drawing $200, or over?

Why does not some insurance company underwrite "Unemployment Insurance?" Why does not some bank undertake to accept a Savings Account which cannot be withdrawn, unless against the proof of depositor having lost his job?

Or, against depositor having arrived at a special age?

Community welfare and tranquillity is one of the main objects of any good Government and of the Public as well. It therefore behoves that they both should lend every support to the L.B.S. and in every way relieve community unemployment.

Were a man to slay himself—he is called a coward and pessimist and were he to leave a family his reputation might be charcoaled the worst; many would say why didn't he do this and why didn't he do that. If a fellow, in order to save his family from starving to death, should rob, he finds himself eventually in hot water. The public is cold and remorseless. If a fellow is down—he is out, and if the L.B.S. is his only beacon in a dark tempestuous ocean, just see how much it means to him. To-day it's his day of gloom, to-morrow may be yours . . . therefore, why not a better pen than mine carry forward the suggestions, already ventured.

Thanking you for the courtesy of publication.

"PRINCESS PINCE-NEZ."

DAYLIGHT SAVING SCHEME

Government Deny Local Rumour

MERCANTILE FIRMS RAISE OBJECTIONS

Rumours were current yesterday that the Hong Kong Government were considering a "daylight saving scheme" in the form of an alteration to the office hours in the Government Offices to an 8.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. scheme, instead of the usual 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., during the winter months. It was stated that this scheme was being adopted in conjunction with the Government Offices in the Straits Settlements and in Shanghai.

Whereas the alteration of working hours during the winter have always been automatic in Shanghai, the Straits Settlements have only recently adopted this practice.

Enquiries from the Colonial Secretary's Office yesterday, however, revealed that the rumour was without foundation. The idea had been taken up by the Hon. Mr. E. R. Halifax, C.M.G., last year, but, after protracted correspondence, was finally turned down "owing to the disapproval of many mercantile firms."

The scheme would have come as a great boon to local sportsmen, as the quickly fading light during the winter months very often does not permit the playing of full time in games such as rugby, hockey, or tennis.

The following list of unclaimed radio telegrams are awaiting collection at the Government Radio Office:—Fontal (from San Francisco); Now Long, 160 Winglock St. (from Chattanooga, Tenn.); and Chutunghon, 10 Newmarket St. (from Emp. of Asia, V.P.G.T.).

SOCIAL EVENTS THIS WEEK

Hamlet At University Next Saturday

BOWLS INTERNATIONALS TO-DAY

The semi-final matches of the Gutierrez Shield Interport Bowls contest are the chief sporting events on the calendar for to-day, while the high light of the social activities will be the band concert at St. Andrew's Church at 9 o'clock this evening.

Scandinavian religious festivals will be celebrated at Tao Fong Shan Chapel, Bishop's House at 11 a.m., while from St. Teresa's Church, Prince Edward Road, will proceed a solemn procession.

The Interport Polo match and dinner will take place to-morrow afternoon and evening. The match, which was postponed from yesterday, promises to be one of the most evenly contested polo Interports, the teams being well-matched and well mounted.

Methodism in Wanchai will receive an enthusiastic fillip from the "Turning of the Sod" for the erection of the new Chinese Methodist Church at 2.30 p.m.

Loyalty Key Note Of Christianity

The Little Things In Life Must Be Watched

How To Secure Contentment

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

THE greatest soldier and servant any cause has ever had, was a prisoner in Rome. As he sat in his prison-cell, he was writing a letter to the infant Church of Galatia, to strengthen them in their new-found faith. As he looked around to find some illustration to encourage them to come out in their true colours, he noticed that everything around him bore the marks of the Roman Emperor. The tunic of the jailor, the utensils, even the links of the chains which fettered him.

Then he remembered that he too, had marks upon him. On his back were the scars he had received at Philippi and elsewhere, and he wrote down "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus."

And there are certain marks which we should bear upon our bodies and upon our characters as ordinary individuals, and most essentially if we profess and call ourselves Christians. I propose, therefore, in my next four articles to write about these marks. St. Paul had them, and above all others they were the hall-marks of Christ Himself.

The first of them is LOYALTY. Time and time again, Paul could have saved himself trouble and physical pain if he had cared to deny the Faith he had found on the Damascus Road. Yet he made the motto of his life, "I count all things but loss, for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord." Was loyalty ever more clearly shown than by the life of the Master? From the cradle to the grave it shone like a lambent flame on every page of His life.

Loyalty to his home in his youth and early manhood, then to the work He had come to do. Nothing ever made Him swerve one hair's breadth from the course He had planned to take—even death itself.

Loyalty Needed To-day

—Was there ever a time when loyalty was more needed than it is to-day, or when disloyalty in its many forms is more apparent? Everywhere authority seems to be going to the wall. Take the home. Somebody has said, that there is as much authority there as there ever was, but it is being exercised by the children. The words of the King, some years ago still are true,—"The foundation of England's greatness lies in the homes of the people." When home-life decays it is the beginning of a nation's downfall.

We want a new spirit of loyalty there, loyalty of children to their parents and of parents to their children, and loyalty of husbands and wives to the vows they made

Little Things In Life

It is usually the little things, in life that give us away, one way or the other. Watch them. It is the little thought that produces the great sin, the little word that leads on to violence, the speck of dust in the carburettor that brings a Rolls-Royce to a stop, on the side of the road. If we watch the little things, and get into the habit and custom of loyalty, we shall be ready when the great test comes.

Loyalty lies at the foundation of all healthy civilisation, loyalty to the home means happiness and contentment, loyalty to law and order means a settled and contented people, and lastly there comes loyalty to God our Father.

In any intimate friendship, one is constantly finding out new and delightful things about the other, but the moment one is disloyal, it is the beginning of the end.

REQUEST FOR FINE REFUSED

Indians in Colony Without Passports

An additional charge of being in the Colony without passports was yesterday brought against Mit Singh, the two Indian stowaways who entered the Colony on board the s.s. Cape St. Francis on September 24, and who were sent in the house of detention pending their return to Singapore.

Sub-Inspector Rozesky prosecuted before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy. The first defendant stated that he had had a passport many years ago but had since lost it.

"When sentence of two weeks' imprisonment prior to their being expelled was passed, Mit Singh immediately asked for the option of a fine.

Mr. Wynne Jones: "If I find you that will take all your money. No, I think the best thing is for you to save your money."

S. I. Rozesky: "I think that would be best as they would not be allowed to wander round the Colony without passports."

on the day they were joined together.

Then take the larger view,—that of the State. All over the world of late years there have been waves of crime, gunmen, wholesale murders, the streets of some of the world's capitals running in blood, while the greatest menace to the civilisation is working by every means in its power to destroy loyalty of men to their King and country and state, loyalty to bonds and compacts, between employers and employees. In the Bazaars of India and Egypt, their deadly poison has been at work, tempting the native races away from their ancient allegiances, to the destruction of the Empire that has come down to us across the ages, bought and paid-for by the life-blood of England's sons.

Apathy Must Be Killed

Within the last few years there has been a great renaissance in two of the great European nations. The reason is that a fresh spirit of national loyalty has been reborn within them. What we need to-day is the kindling of a similar spirit in the soul of our nation, a fresh realization of our responsibilities to the glorious heritage that is ours—something to kill the apathy that is eating into the foundations of our national life.

It is not always, however, in the big things of life, that we prove our loyalty, it is often in the little things. The man who takes care of the little loyalties, when the great emergency comes up against his life, will not be found wanting. The little acts of dishonesty by the boy in business at last leads up to great disloyalty, until the bankruptcy, or misappropriation of public funds by some man in high position shocks the whole community. It shocks us only because we could not see the gradual process, the gradual march of little concessions, compromises and surrenders.

Little Things In Life

It is usually the little things, in life that give us away, one way or the other. Watch them. It is the little thought that produces the great sin, the little word that leads on to violence, the speck of dust in the carburettor that brings a Rolls-Royce to a stop, on the side of the road. If we watch the little things, and get into the habit and custom of loyalty, we shall be ready when the great test comes.

BAZAAR AT HOLY SPIRIT SCHOOL

English-Bred Canary Lottery Prize

HAND-SEWN EXHIBITION

Neat and attractive hand-sewn articles, all of which were designed and made by the students themselves, were among the varied offerings for sale at the annual Bazaar of the Holy Spirit School, yesterday afternoon at No. 140 Caine Road.

Many booths displaying knitted and embroidered articles, suitable for household use, were also offered at temptingly low prices, while toys and dolls in abundance provided amusement and entertainment for the children.

Practically the entire school took part in providing the material and work for organising the bazaar, the purpose of which was to raise funds for a piano and apparatus for a domestic science laboratory.

The bazaar had the approval of many local firms who assisted generously towards the function, contributing refreshments and material for the many articles on sale.

One of the attractions of the bazaar was the sale, by lottery, of a beautiful English-bred canary, donated by Mr. Siu Kin-chiu, who had previously refused many tempting offers for its purchase.

Hundreds of children and grown-ups visited the bazaar yesterday, making purchases and taking part in the many side-shows and competitions of chance, such as the "fish-pond," "bran tub," "ring toss" and other attractions. Entrance fee was purchased in the form of a rose from smart and attractive vendors at the entrance doors.

ASSYRIANS FROM IRAQ

Possible Settlement In British Guiana

LEAGUE COUNCIL INQUIRY SUGGESTED

London, Yesterday.

The question of the settlement, outside Asia, of any Assyrians who may desire to leave Iraq, came before the League of Nations Council yesterday.

Several suggestions for their settlement have from time to time been made, and, for various reasons, been rejected. In response to a request for further proposals, the possibilities of areas in British Guiana and in French West Africa were put before yesterday's meeting of League Council, together with communications on the subject from the British and French Governments.

Reports from Geneva state that the Council has decided to attempt the settlement, and will investigate the suitability of the areas and of other questions in connection with the proposed transference of these people.

The British Government suggests that, in regard to the territory of some 13,000 square miles in British Guiana, which might be reserved for the purpose, the League's independent investigation into the climate and other conditions should extend over at least three months. The Agricultural potentialities of the territory, it is stated, have not yet been properly tested, but it is thought that one, limited area would lend themselves to cultivation, and would meet the requirements of the Assyrian settlers and their stock.—British Wireless Service.

HOME MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

POLICE WEAR DOWN ATHLETIC

Share Ten Goals After Three Down

GREEN OUTSTANDING

A large and enthusiastic crowd gathered at Kowloon to see what proved to be a fast, and, in the closing stages, an exciting game, the result being a draw of 5 goals each.

The opening exchanges were very even, and play extremely fast in the trying heat. The Police pressed hard, but the Athletic quickly settled down, and, with long accurate passes, opened the scoring through a brilliant header by Li Hung Ching.

Green, who played a sparkling game throughout, then equalised after a clever run and cross-shot. The Police continued to press, but the inside forwards were weak in front of goal.

From this point the Athletic played brilliant football, and dominated the game up to the interval. Pile and Blackburn held out gamely, but the Police halves could not hold the fast Athletic forward line, Parker giving Li Hung Ching far too much scope, and two more goals followed through Chau Chau Do, Fung King Yun spoiled several good openings by being offside, while Pile and Blackburn, trying desperately to relieve the pressure, kept well up the field. Towards the interval Li Hung Ching again scored, giving McHardy no chance. This half was certainly the Athletic's, a feature of the game being their really clever ground passing between half-backs and forwards, Ho Chor Yin being particularly outstanding.

Police Improve

The Athletic opened the second half, three goals in the lead, with further raids on the Police goal, and McHardy saved well from Au Ping Ming. The Police now seemed to find their feet, and gradually, and noticeably, began to wear the Athletic down. Green again scored, after a characteristic run down the line, his high shot completely deceiving Lui Kam Ming. The Athletic defence were now in difficulties, and Lui Kam Ming saved brilliantly from Gough. The Police halves were now supporting their forwards well, supplying them with short passes, and continually bringing the ball back into the Athletic goal area. Moss, the Police outside right, who had played rather spasmodically up to now, began to show what he could do, and pleased the crowd with several low passes across the goal-mouth, which were scrambled away from the feet of Channings and Johnston.

From a breakaway, Fung King Yun, again unmarked, scored a fifth goal for the Athletic, the ball appearing to slip through McHardy's hands. This goal was not deserved on the run of the play, but the Police fought back gamely, each man pulling his weight nobly, and their reward came, Stephens dropping the ball beautifully to Green, who flicked it with his head into the net.

The Athletic now appeared tired, lacking the dash and sparkle of the first half, though the wing men always looked dangerous when they secured the ball. Moss, after a dash down the line, cut in and shot, the ball hitting the upright. From the rebound, Moss scored again and quickly transferred to Johnston, who made no mistake with a hard low drive.

Excitement was now intense, and the Police forwards swarmed round the goal, fighting for the equaliser. Time was short when Green (undoubtedly hero of the side) passed to Stephens, who kicked ahead—past Wong Sui Mo and hustling the goal-keeper off the ball, obtained the equaliser, which was really deserved, in view of the remarkable recovery by the Police in the second half.

Wong Sui Mo had to leave the field for a time in this half, having received a kick on the ankle, and the Athletic missed his services during the sustained pressure by the Police.

Police:—McHardy; Blackburn, Pile; Brooks, Gough, Parker; Moss, Stephens, Johnston, Channings and Green.
Athletics:—Lui Kam-ming; Wong Sui Mo, Mok So; Lai Kwok-chui, Chui Ah-fai, Ho Chor-yin; Li Hung-ching; Au Ping-ming, Chau Chau-do, Ho Ka-kua and Fung King-yun.

The wingers, Clayton and Baldry, were often at fault. The former for not lifting the ball over into the centre, while the latter would greatly improve by steadying himself when presented with an apparently easy scoring chance. Usually a winger has very little of the goal to shoot at, and such was the case yesterday. His shots went very close it is true, but on two occasions Malpass and McGuinness were standing unmarked a few yards from goal, and a back pass would have been more advantageous.

Lincolns Open Scoring

The Lincolns took the lead shortly after the interval, Malpass availing himself of an opportunity to take the ball out of Wong's hands and place it in the net.

This lead was held for only a matter of a minute, for from the restart, South China swept down the field on the left wing, and a clever movement resulted in nothing with a well-placed shot.

It was just after this that the Lincolns fell away, and, although they kept the opposing forwards at bay, it was only a matter of time before another goal would be scored. Higgins made some marvellous saves, and when South China did add the second goal through Leo Shek-yun, he had no chance to recover after having pushed the ball out from under the bar.

Both teams missed chances. It was the Lincolns in the first half, and undoubtedly South China in the second.

Lincolns:—Higgins; Steans, Edmundson, Dudley, Ash, Robson; Clayton, McGuinness, Malpass, Ridley and Baldry.

due to the listlessness of his forwards. Howe lead the forwards and when the team fell to pieces after St. Joseph's fourth goal, he played inspired football—that he did so is evinced by the scoring of the winning goals in the last ten minutes of play. The few minutes of football played by the Club team just before the end was certainly due to Howe and Pote-Hunt.

In the defence Gamble was very weak, but Strange kept the attack out very well.

Costa played very well, but Pote-Hunt had his measure. He was well supported by Souza and Elms who played excellently, especially Elms, who after five minutes of play was limping, an old injury to the knee giving him trouble. He was, however, no passenger. The backs, Gomes and Leonard, played very well and kept the Club out without undue pressure until the last phase when they made the mistake of allowing Howe and Pote Hunt to get too close. Fernandez on the left wing was very fast and played well. The St. Joseph's team do not appear to be greatly troubled by the absence of the Gosano brothers, and, on the whole, played very well. They suffered a honourable defeat.

The first goal was scored within the first five minutes by Ward, an excellent pass from Fernandez enabling him to spend a red hot shot passed Rodgers. The second goal came some ten minutes later from Rocha. Gamble missed the ball in a race across the field, Rocha beat Strange to net. Five minutes from half-time Fernandez scored St. Joseph's third goal, but Howe reduced the arrears when he bundled Lim and the ball into the net just as the referee blew his whistle for half-time.

Club's Late Rally

St. Joseph's had hard luck on many occasions during the second half, but it was not until fifteen minutes from the end that they registered their fourth goal when Ward received a pass from Rocha to score.

Within a few minutes Pote Hunt scored a fine goal from about 30 yards range, and shortly afterwards Drown sent a fine pass to Howe who did not hesitate with a drive to the bottom of the net. From the cen-

ARTILLERY MAKE SURPRISING DEBUT AGAINST KOWLOON

Edmunds Scores Twice After Hospital Spell

DURHAM'S FINE KEEPING

The Royal Artillery gained a rather surprise victory over Kowloon by 4 goals to 1 on the Club ground yesterday afternoon.

Both teams engaged in keen exchanges, but the Gunners appeared to hold the advantage through Woods and Knight on the left wing. Sgt. Woods is an old soldier (over 40 years of age) and his prowess on the field is a credit to both himself and the team.

Edmunds led the Gunners' forwards in their attacks and succeeded in netting two of the goals. He has only this week been discharged from hospital, and has had little or no time to get into trim.

Durham, the Gunners' goalkeeper, was in particularly good fettle, while the full-backs proved a difficult problem for the Kowloon attackers. Clancey, an old favourite with the Gunners, and Hopkins have a thorough understanding in the defence game.

Smith, the Artillery right wing man had his first trial in the senior team and proved himself very capable with plenty of speed.

Miskick Leads To Goal

Kowloon had a share of bad luck in the first half of the game. The Gunners' first goal came through a miscalculation by Eastman in front of goal, and Edmunds scored for the Artillery. Immediately following this the Artillery made a fast run through and Edmunds again found the net.

Left Wing Danger

The Kowloon forwards, however, battled steadily with the Gunners' defence D. Knox, a newcomer to the team, was on the left wing where he displayed fine football, at times having the opposing defence very busy. Combining with V. White the inside-left and Elliott the Kowloon left winger worried the Gunners considerably. Elliott played his usual steady and determined game as leader of the forwards, scoring the only goal for Kowloon. Cord again appeared in the Kowloon goal where he appears to have lost none of his last season's skill. The Gunners' forwards were very persistent and proved too good for Everest and Eastman, the opposing full-backs.

The game became very interesting towards the close of the first half of play when Harris, supported by Pardoe, made several brilliant attempts to win through, but the Kowloon players put up a stern opposition.

Just before the interval the Gunners marked up their third goal after a brilliant display. A fine wing movement gave Knight the ball and a quick pass to Woods resulted in the latter netting the ball with a splendid shot which baffled the keen eye of Cord in goal.

Knox Shines On Wing

Following the rest, Kowloon carried out several dangerous raids on the Gunners, D. Knox giving a grand display on the left wing. Clancey, however, was also in top form and cleared to advantage.

The Artillery attack was now vastly superior, though on one occasion the Kowloon side seemed almost certain to add another goal to their credit when Elliott took a penalty kick for a foul. It was a well directed ball, but Durham just managed to effect a grand save.

Despite every effort on the part of Kowloon, the Artillery enjoyed the best of the encounter from then onwards and Smith added their fourth goal with a smart drive.

The Kowloon team have however, several new arrivals and when the team gets settled down they should be able to give a better display.

Artillery:—Durham; Clancey, Hopkins, Scott, Pardoe, Harris, Smith, Hall, Edmunds, Woods and Knight.

Kowloon:—Cord; Everest, Eastman; G. White, Pope, Dicks; W. Knox, Whitehead, Elliott, V. White and D. Knox.

tre kick, Pote Hunt sent the ball down the centre, and Howe deflected the ball into the net for the equaliser, and, just on time, scored his fourth goal of the game with a perfect drive from just outside the area to give the Club two points.

St. Joseph's:—Lim; Gomes, Leonard; Souza, Costa, Elms; Lee, Ward, Eras, Rocha and Fernandez.

Club:—Rodger; Gamble, Strange; Williams, Pote-Hunt, Baldwin; Fowler, Drown, Howe, Tavlin and Sloan.

LINCOLNS RECOVER WELL

East Lanes Lose An Early Advantage

The Lincolns, after a poor start in which they allowed the East Lanes to take an early two goals lead, recovered in great style, eventually winning by 5 goals to 3.

Colclough, the Lincolns full back, combined well with Moakin in goal, the pair proving an effective defence.

Salmon opened the scoring for the East Lanes early in the game and Swaine quickly added another. Evans, however, wiped out the deficit with two nice drives and just before the interval McGuinness gave the Lincolns the lead.

Soon after the restart Setter snatched up a chance and netted well clear of Harmsworth while McGuinness added two more shortly after. Griffen netted the East Lanes' remaining goal.

Lincolns:—Meakin; Dobbs, Colclough; Maughan, Wildy, Thompson; Matthews, Evans, Setter, McGuinness, and Toyne.

East Lanes:—Harmsworth; Steele; Harwood; Powley, Power, Ackersley; Griffen, Rydings, Salmon, Johnson and Swain.

KOWLOON PLAYER ORDERED OFF

Full-Back Retires At Half-Time

The Chinese Athletic completely outclassed the Kowloon eleven on the Club ground yesterday afternoon to the tune of six goals to nil.

From the commencement at Kim Fung led dangerous attacks. Boyes, the Kowloon goalkeeper, however, undoubtedly saved the Club from a larger defeat. Fuxman and Hickman, the Kowloon backs, were not too steady.

Shortly before the first goal was scored Duffield, Kowloon's inside-left was ordered off the field for allegedly striking an opponent. This weakened the Kowloon team and the Athletic scored their first goal through Au Kim Fung.

Following the half time rest the Kowloon team could only field nine men. Fuxman, their right-back being unfit to continue play. This made the work for the Athletic eleven considerably lighter and Boyes was soon under fire. His play was indeed a credit. Mok Ping Wah on the left wing soon became busy and some excellent passes by the forwards gave the team every advantage to score, but it was not until well towards the end of the game that they could get past Boyes and Hickman.

Continued efforts on the part of Mok Ping Wah, however, enabled the Athletic to add four further goals through Yeung Kau Po (2), Au Kim Fung and finally Mok Ping Wah.

BORDERERS ARE SURPRISED

Eastern Secure Point In Their Debut

The Eastern Athletic, newcomers to the league, held the Borderers to a draw in a fast and keen game yesterday at the Valley. Their backs, Lai Ting Choi and Lau Hing Man played a steady game, continually holding up the Borderers' attack.

After the interval the Borderers opened the scoring through Nelson, but, shortly after, the Eastern Athletic equalised, Chung Sic Hang received a good pass from the left wing and gave Williams no chance with a well-placed drive.

NAVY LEADER SENT OFF FIELD

Young Indians Routed In Second Half

At the Valley yesterday the Indians, although leading at half time by 2 goals to 1, were overwhelmed by the Royal Navy in the second half and defeated by 7 goals to 3. Bad feeling in the second half caused a brawl, for which Glass, the Navy centre-forward, was sent off.

were sub-penned only the ladies were called in evidence. Both sides were within their rights. As Cockburn C.J. remarked in Woolley v. Corbishlee "Why should all the evidence be got out? We only require what was material."

Another point taken, as I understood it, was that there was only the evidence that one person was disturbed. In my view the disturbance of one person is sufficient to constitute an offence. If the intention was that so many people must be disturbed before the Section operated, I think it would have said so. The prosecution, I think, go further. They quote Woolley v. Corbishlee where, in a case of playing football on the public highway to the annoyance of the passengers therein, it was held not to be necessary to prove a single case of annoyance. What was proved was that a horse was frightened and that the constable could not have proceeded upon his way through the market place where the offence took place. The case seems analogous.

MR. KING HEARS NOISE. Now, what have the prosecution proved? Mr. King stated that shortly after 10 p.m. he heard noise, which was a considerable annoyance. At 11.20 he took action. At 12.45 a.m. when wakened by the telephone, he went to his window—which faces rather away from the noise, and "heard the previous racket being continued." He gives no evidence of being disturbed himself. He merely proved that there was a noise calculated to disturb. It is possible I could convict on this, on the authority of Woolley v. Corbishlee, but further evidence makes it unnecessary to consider that point.

Could anything be clearer than Mr. Ross's evidence? It is no question of assessing correctly the volume of sound. Mr. Ross says bluntly "I was awakened four times by the noise, and finally a fifth time by the departure of the guests." If asked, I think a jury would agree that this constituted a disturbance of his tranquillity. I accordingly find that the prosecution have succeeded in proving their case.

NO REFLECTION

I gathered from the Crown Solicitor that this is a test case. It seems to me rather a storm in a tea cup. Mr. Sewell has adopted rather a tragic attitude about the reflection cast upon him. All I can say is that I do not conceive it possible that anyone who knows the facts can consider that any reflection has been cast upon the moral character of the defendants.

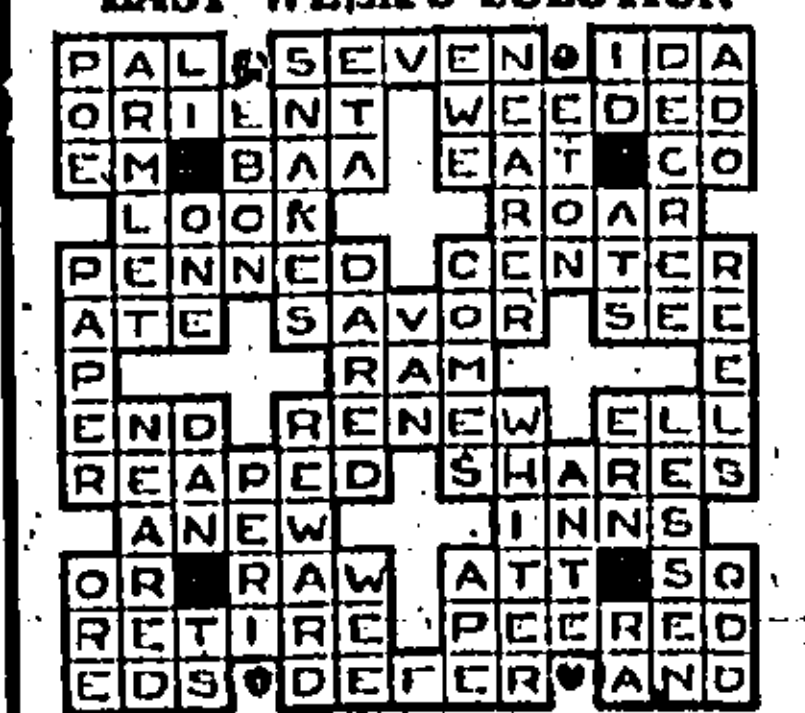

I must, however, find that the charge proven, and I fine them $1 each.

A keen sportsman, M. Teissier is still an active swimmer and tennis player, although he has now given up riding, which was at one time one of his greatest sports. He is still a keen follower of the races, and it is expected that Happy Valley Meetings will have a regular supporter in the new French Consul.

He is now only an inactive race follower, but many years ago was an amateur rider, taking part in races in Peking and Tientsin, while the paper hunts, which are a popular feature of life in the north, always found him a keen supporter.

THRILLING TIGER HUNT

Shooting is another of his hobbies, both big and small game. He is very fond of turning out with a shot-gun after ducks and other birds, and tells an amusing tale of a tiger hunt in which he once joined with Mr. Martin, his British colleague in Foochow, who is at present British Consul in Amoy.

Armed to the teeth the hunters set out in search of a tiger, which was known to be in the vicinity of Foochow, and, finding a handy boulder, climbed on top, the British Consul watching in one direction and the French in another.

After a two-hours' vigil the tiger failed to oblige, and the disappointed hunters returned home, only to learn the next day that the tiger had remained hidden in a cave under the boulder during their sojourn, and that shortly after their departure natives had hauled it out and killed it.

EXPLORATION OF MOUNTAINS

British Expedition To South Africa

London, Yesterday.

Dr. Edwards, the entomologist, and Dr. Taylor, the botanist of the Natural History Museum, Kensington, are the leaders of an expedition which left London yesterday for the exploration of the mountainous districts of Kenya and Uganda for a close study of their fauna and flora, and it is expected that the investigations will result in the collection of some strange insects and plants.

The East African Governments are supporting the exploration work. Part of the work will be conducted on a mountain over 12,000 feet high, in temperatures well below freezing point.—British Wireless Service.

DECORATIONS

M. Teissier has been a life member of the Hong Kong Club since 1907. Among the many decorations he has received is the Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, Official d'Académie, and the Official de Cambodge; he was the last member to receive the Decoration of the Emperor of Korea, and, in the old regime, received the Third Arm of Russia.

The eight previous sketches were of Sir William Shenton K.C., the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, Sir William Hornell, K.C., C.I.E., L.L.D., M.A., the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., L.L.D., Commodore F. Elliott, O.B.E., the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, O.B.E., L.L.D., Mr. Eric Mitchell O.B.E., and Mr. T. D. Wilson.

Local Airmindedness Inspired

It is to Members of the Council like Mr. Mackie and Mr. Bell, who have both brought this matter out into the open, and discussed it in public with courage, that thanks are due, for it has shown the Government that, in addition to a few obscure enthusiasts, men of weight both in public and business life, considered the matter of importance.

Business Flight Home

Mr. Bell is well-known as an aviation enthusiast, and it is no secret that he is shortly contemplating a business trip to England by air.

That one of the leading business men in the Colony should be making such a trip, and having to go down to Singapore to join his plane, should be some indication to the Government that an air service is wanted, both for through passengers, and for passengers to Singapore and other eastern cities.

Only the air-minded realise the possibilities of such a trip. A businessman, with a head office in London, finds it necessary, on occasions, to make a trip home for conferences and discussions. By boat this would take him at the shortest, a full three months.

Even by sailing to Singapore and taking a plane from there, he can do the same trip in six weeks, and, in addition, have almost three weeks in England.

For a businessman whose salary is high, a Company is actually saving money on the trip, as well as convenience, for many taipans cannot be spared from their positions for long periods.

Fine Advertisement

I think it is one of the finest things that has happened to aviation in this Colony that Mr. Bell should have found it necessary to make this trip, for, even if it does him no good, it will be a practical demonstration of what can be done, even under more difficult circumstances than would operate if he could join his plane here.

Mr. Mackie, another enthusiastic protagonist of aviation in the Colony, is keen and enthusiastic to see greater facilities for training at Kai Tak than are available at the moment.

I quite agree with him that three planes in a Colony of this size is quite an inadequate number for the purpose of training, not only people in the Colony, but numbers of enthusiasts from Canton.

I understand that an American flying school is getting underway at Canton, and, that if better facilities are not quickly available here, a valuable clientele, and potential clientele from this vast centre, will be lost to the Colony.

In his speech Mr. Mackie deplored the fact that often there was not more than one machine available for learners, and that on occasion, he understood, there was no plane.

Mr. Mackie is hopeful that the question of an air-mail to England will soon be settled through an amicable arrangement with China.

Bed-Room Planes

An interesting fact I have gathered from a recent visit to the Colony of one of the chief pilots of the K.L.M. Dutch Air mail is that there will soon be an air line from Batavia to the Philippines, which will link up with the extensive lines now running throughout the Islands. It may be news to Hong Kong that the people in the Philippines are tremendously air-minded, and that there are planes in daily operation between the various islands of the group, some of which carry as many as ten passengers. Those are Stinson 3-engined machines.

Another interesting fact learned from the Dutch pilot is that next year planes, with a speed of 200 m.p.h. or more, will be put on the run from Amsterdam to Java, and that a revolutionary policy will be followed, which will enable passengers to make the journey in six days.

At present journeys are carried out only in daylight, except perhaps for a little early morning flying, passengers spending the night, in many cases from about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, on the ground, sleeping in hotels, etc.

The new Dutch policy will provide machines with cabins in which passengers can sleep. The scheme will be that the plane will arrive in a place some time towards sundown. Passengers will go to the hotel, have dinner, a bath, etc., and then return to the plane, and so to bed.

The first hop of the next day's flight will then start some time during the night, arriving at the early morning destination at about 6 a.m. for breakfast, then continuing the day's flight. By this method it is hoped to halve the time spent on the journey—much of which is wasted at present in sleeping time, and time spent touring round the countryside while waiting for dinner after landing.

Inspiration For Hong Kong

This change in Dutch policy does not directly effect my discussion of the Budget speeches, but I have brought it in just for the purpose of illustrating how wide awake our competitors are in the matter of being right up to the last-minute in aviation.

I trust the good spade-work done by the two Honourable members, Messrs. Mackie and Bell, will not be allowed to lie fallow for another 12 months, like so many matters which are mentioned in governing bodies, but that the Council, inspired by the encouraging words of His Excellency the Governor, will forge ahead in the matter, continually urging the Government at home, who have a name for shying things, to keep at the Chinese Government with a view to settling the flying across China question with the utmost despatch, in order that we may glean a little of the advantages we see almost every other nation and country in the world reaping from Commercial Aviation.

PHOTOGRAPHY

THE quality of the exhibits shown at the University Union by the Photographic Club of the University is fully up to the standard which one would find in a similar exhibition at one of the great capital cities; and one of its revelations is that in its President, the Hon. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., L.L.D., the Club has an artist of technical genius. The President sends a special show of eighteen items, of which any Club might be proud; one of them, a view of sampans and junks at Aberdeen, entitled "Evening Calm" is particularly charming; but there are two or three others that show an equal appreciation of form and shade.

Amongst the prize-winners Shanghai, New York, Switzerland and Hungary are represented; and Hongkong in the person of Khoo Keng-wa wins a prize for a study of a Chinese Barber. Mr. C. S. Fong and Mr. P. A. Dragon are honourably mentioned, and these three each get a special award given to Local Contributors. A Shanghai exhibitor, Liu Shu-chong wins the first prize; but possibly if this were put to a vote of visitors some others would run his "A Charming Evasion" very close. A study by Matthew Ferrantino, of New York is a good example of modern work.

A study of a 'breaking wave' by Mr. A. V. R. van Oudshoorn, a descendant of one of the old Dutch Governors of South Africa, whose family has always appreciated beautiful things, is called "Force Unfurling" in very powerful; and "Grado", a study of luggers at a quayside from Boston, U.S.A., reminds one in subject of many famous pictures. For choice of subject we were greatly intrigued by "A Difficult Task", from Budapest;—a small child climbing a flight of stone steps, that throw vivid shadows in a rhythmic, geometrical pattern.

The judges were Messrs. R. Polniet, A. S. Konya, and W. H. Tamm. The exhibition will be open to-morrow for the last time.

AQUATICS*Wong Shui Hung Most Prominent*FINALS ON WEDNESDAYAlthough several of the events failed to bring forward the requisite number of starters, the heats for the annual aquatic championship of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., held last evening, revealed very good form amongst the competitors who qualified to swim in the finals which are to be held on Wednesday, at 7.30 p.m.

A. M. Omar scored two good goals early in the game, but Glass reduced the lead shortly before the interval, bustling the goal-keeper, and the ball, into the net.

After the interval two quick goals, by Glass and Burnage, gave the Navy the lead. A lucky goal was then scored by Stanley, the ball being deflected into the net by a defender. The best goal of the match was scored by Robinson, from the wing.

For a spell the Young Indians rallied and from a maul Hamet netted.

The remaining two goals were scored for the Navy by Kernick and Chambers.

UNIVERSITY ARE UNLUCKY

The Club second eleven commenced the season yesterday with a goalless draw against the University at Caroline Hill.

In a very poor game of football the University had everything their own way, but failed to score. Blake, the University inside-left, last year's Kowloon Winger, was disappointing, missing many chances.

Low and Lee were excellent in the defence, particularly Low, who cleared in fine style. The half-backs also were excellent, H. N. Lee and Symons, playing a sound game. Farrow was weak at centre-forward, and the Club would have done better to play him in goal as Payne lacked confidence in his hands, attempting to clear by kicking on numerous occasions.

Binnie the left back played very well and kept the University attack at bay. Nicholls played well at centre-half and was well supported by McKellor and Carr.

occasions, he missed the ball altogether. When he did connect the ball travelled well, and had his blows been straight many goals would have resulted.

Newbigging Sound
W. Newbigging, the Colony back, gave a sounder exhibition, although his play was rather on the dull side from the spectators' point of view.

D. Peel Yates, the Colony No. 1, kept well on the ball and played his usual hard game. He appears well suited to the arduous position of No. 1, and should be one of the mainstays of the local side to-morrow.

C. S. Franklin, Shanghai's veteran player, lived up to his reputation as an accurate hitter, his strokes being very noticeable in comparison with some of those of the local players, while the visiting No. 1, I. R. Andrews, was in keeping with the form of the remainder of the Shanghai side.

Prior to to-morrow's match there will be a parade of the ponies of both teams, which will give local enthusiasts an opportunity of comparing the Shanghai mounts with the larger ones of Hong Kong.

Mr. V. A. C. Jarrett, of the editorial staff of the South China Morning Post returned to the Colony by the s.s. Haruna Maru yesterday.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 3 RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Dies With Sneer
On His Lips

FIFTY SHOTS IN BODY

St. Paul, Minnesota. With fifty bullets in his body, Homer van Meter, the fifth member of the Dillinger gang to be mown down by the police under fire, fell dead in the streets of St. Paul recently.

Van Meter was known as America's Public Enemy No. 3.

He died as he lived, with a sneer on his lips and his hand on the gun.

When the riddled body was taken to the mortuary it was found that, like his leader Dillinger, beauty experts had lifted his face and removed a mole and a number of tattoo marks. His moustache had also been shaved off.

The Challenge

Van Meter was challenged at a deserted street corner by the Chief of Police, accompanied by three detectives. Ordering him to halt, they fired in the air above his head.

Van Meter's hand went to his gun. He fired two shots, which narrowly missed the Chief of Police and his men. Then in a panic he broke into a run.

This was the signal for the police to open fire again. A hail of bullets from rifles, revolvers and a machine-gun were aimed at Van Meter.

The gangster managed to run across the street and collapsed in an alley.

Police Chief Talks

This is how the shooting was described by Tom Brown, the former chief of police, who worked the machine-gun while Cullen, the present chief, fired with his revolver.

"We riddled Van Meter with bullets. If he had not opened fire on us, we would have preferred to take him alive. For two weeks we have had a line on Van Meter. We have been right on his trail all the time."

"He added that he had three other police officers motored to the spot where they saw Van Meter, and ordered him to halt."

Woman In Line Of Fire

Then in the middle of the shooting, "a lead was being pumped hard into Van Meter," a woman crossed the line of police fire.

For a second the flow of bullets ceased, only to open again and continue until the police guns were emptied of ammunition.

A large roll of dollar bills was found in Van Meter's pockets.

For some time after the shooting the police refused to make a statement. Identification of the dead man was delayed. Finally the chief of police, Mr. Cullen, made the following announcement:

Tattooed "Hope"

"There is no question but what it was Van Meter."

One identification feature which made the police certain that the man was Van Meter was that the body was tattooed on the right forearm with the picture of an anchor and the word "Hope."

As with Dillinger, it was a woman who caused Van Meter to be discovered by the police.

According to the authorities, the relatives of the woman became suspicious of Van Meter and reported him to the police a fortnight ago. The investigations disclosed his identity.

After Dillinger had been shot by the police in Chicago on July 22, Homer van Meter was listed among the five lieutenants of the Dillinger gang who should be regarded as "public enemies" to be killed on sight.

THE MAN WHO BLEW UP MESSINES RIDGE

Sir Edgeworth David
Passes

EXPLORER AND GEOLOGIST

Professor Sir Edgeworth David, explorer and geologist, who supervised the construction of a vast system of tunnels on the Western Front during the war, recently died in Sydney, Australia.

Sir Edgeworth, who was 75, had a life packed with adventure and achievements from the time when he left Cardiff, in South Wales, as a boy to his discoveries of traces of the first forms of life in the world.

His knighthood was bestowed for these latter discoveries in 1926, and also for his work with Sir Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic expedition in 1907-09, when he was leader of the first ascent of Mount Erebus and one of the party which first visited the South Magnetic Pole.

He was placed in charge of the mining operations which led to the explosion of the big craters of the Messines Ridge, a signal for the advance there in 1917.

Sir Edgeworth was seventy years old when he made one of the most interesting of discoveries about Australia—fossils judged to be 600 millions of years old.

He received many academic awards, including the honorary degree of D.Sc. from Oxford University in 1911.

His great work was the collation of all known facts on Australian geology.

Interesting

TIDES CONTROLLED BY SUN AND MOON

Why are the tides so complicated?

This is caused by the fact that, first, both the sun and the moon cause them, and, of course, these bodies are not always pulling in the same way.

Secondly, the tides are altered—

(1) By the ocean basins in which they can flow.

(2) By the sea-floor over which the water moves.

Some places have one tide a day, others two, while others, such as most of the Mediterranean, have hardly any tide at all.

"BIG BERTHA" FEAT CELEBRATED

Officers And Gunners
At Reception

Berlin. The bombardment of the French capital by the "Big Bertha" in 1918, was commemorated on September 15 in Berlin during the course of a solemn ceremony.

A reception was held on the occasion in honour of "Gig Bertha" commanding officers, Vice-Admiral Rogge and Lieutenant Kurt, as well as the gunners.

A note published in connection with this celebration by German press says that "Upsetting all ballistic notions, German genius succeeded in sending hundreds of gigantic shells through the stratosphere, into the fortress which served as a capital to France."

"After the war the guns were scrapped so that no enemy ever succeeded in setting eyes on these beautiful wonders."

It will be recalled that one of Big Bertha's giant shells crashed on Good Friday through the roof of the church of St. Gervais in Paris, killing a large number of women, children and old men who were praying inside.

LUNATIC SON SENDS FATHER TO AN ASYLUM

Two Days' Grace
Well Used

NEVER FORGAVE PARENT

Prague. A lunatic son succeeded in getting his sane father shut up in an asylum for several hours before the trick was discovered.

Ladislav Dokoupil had never forgiven his father for having him certified as insane. At the asylum at Olomouc, in Moravia, he behaved himself very well. He did not show any of the spite and malice that led to his detention.

After some time the authorities thought themselves justified in granting him two days' leave of absence.

Dokoupil used his freedom to go to the medical officer in his home town and ask for his father's removal to an asylum.

He supported his demand by producing the certificate, stolen from the Olomouc asylum, of his own insanity.

He and his father have the same name, and he had only to forge a few small alterations as to age.

The police helped to remove the protesting father to the asylum, where he was detained for some hours before the mistake was discovered.

BRIDE'S WEDDING NIGHT IN GAOL

Shortly after a marriage ceremony had been completed at Tarnow, the police arrested the bride, who was hustled off to gaol for the night.

The bride, a Miss R. Teitelbaum, was celebrating her wedding to a medical student who had studied in France.

After the arrest it became known that the bride's brother had informed the police by telegraph that his sister had stolen documents to the value of about £4,000, deposited at Kryhica, and that she intended to run away to Paris.

The following morning, when the bride's brother arrived, it was proved that his sister was legally entitled to remove a part of the documents, which were her property. She had no intention of going to Paris, and did not have a passport.

Miss Teitelbaum was then released. She was met at the gaol gate by her husband.

WHERE EYE BEATS INSTRUMENT

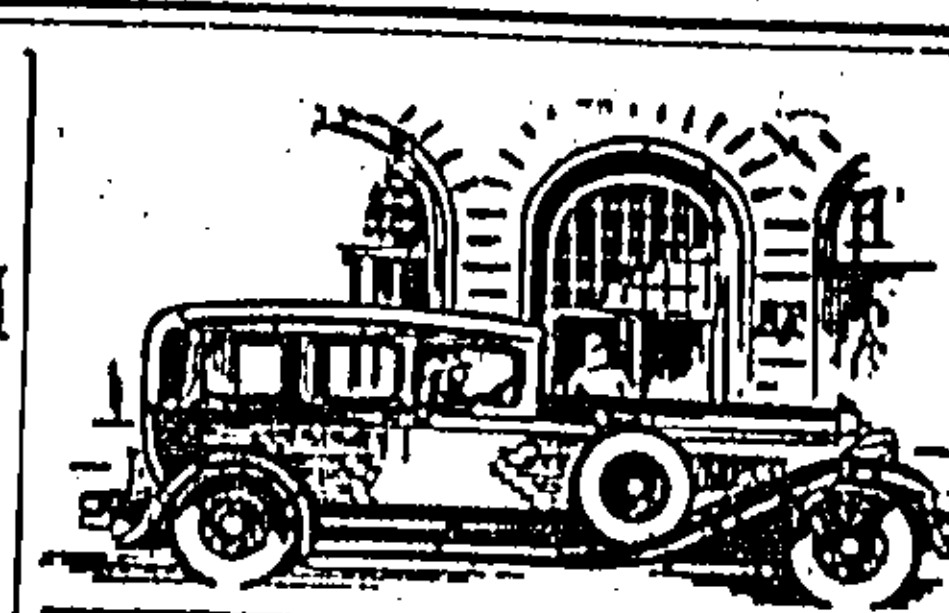

Judging The Fine Shades
Of Colour

The trained human eye is a better judge of fine shades of colour than any instrument which science has yet devised.

This is one of the discoveries made by the National Institute of Industrial Psychology in preparing the first test for judging skill in this direction. It is intended for such workers as dyers, colour printers, assistants in departmental stores, and others who are expected to "match up" colours accurately.

It has also been found that "colour blindness," the only colour failing for which tests have hitherto been available, has little or nothing to do with the judging of fine shades of colour. A colour-blind man, for example, may do remarkably well at judging different shades of the same colour.

In average performance a small group of workers engaged in rewinding silk have done best. They are followed by a group of school teachers and another group of dyers, in that order.

MOTORING NOTES

Side-Road "Lunatics"

People Who Enter Main
Roads Carelessly

AGONISED BRAKING

London. For the last week or two I have been staying at a friend's house on a main road, almost at the point where a fairly busy side road enters it, writes "Nitor," in "The Motor Cycle." The agonised squeal of locked wheels is such a familiar sound that nobody in the house ever seems to notice it. On Sunday I spent an hour watching the fun, and I was most interested to notice that almost every hectic moment was due to vehicles emerging quickly from the side road and turning to the left, i.e., in the direction of the main road traffic stream.

If anyone wanted to turn to the right, i.e., across the main road stream, he was invariably ultra-careful, waiting till a suitable gap occurred. Many of those turning to the left, however, seemed to think that, since they were turning into a traffic stream going in the same direction as their own, there was no necessity to wait for a gap.

The result was a succession of violent applications of brakes by main road traffic while sometimes, when the side-road thruster pulled out right under the nose of a vehicle, the driver of that vehicle was literally and suddenly forced out into traffic stream coming the other way.

I have often encountered these side-road lunatics while riding on main roads myself, but I had never previously realised that there were so many of them.

ENGINE THAT USES ANY KIND OF FUEL

New Design By Soviet Experts

A group of Soviet experts, headed by Professor Shishkin, has designed a gas generating locomotive, which can use any kind of fuel—anthracite, coal, wood, tar, schist, and mineral oil consuming only one third of the quantity of fuel used by other engines and reducing the consumption of water by 25 times. This new locomotive will develop a speed of 60 kilometers per hour, and a traction capacity of 2,500 tons.

FIGURES OF INTEREST

During February nearly 24,000 new motor vehicles were registered in Britain, a figure showing an increase of approximately 9,000 in contrast with February, 1933.

Excluding tramcars and trade licences, 1,789,336 motor licences were current on February 25—106,637 more than a year ago.

New cars registered in February were 15,549, as against 9,703, and goods vehicles 4,961, and against 2,879, giving, respectively, an increase of 60 per cent. and 72 per cent.

Fees for the three months ending February totalled £19,057,393. The figure for 1933 was £17,027,277.

CAR PRICE CUTTING TO STOP

Society's Move Against Casual Traders

Motor manufacturers and traders have decided to attack unfair trading on the part of those who are on the fringe of the trade and who have been indulging in price-cutting.

The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, in a statement issued in London states:—

"In order to preserve the profits of the trade to those dealers who, by their investment in the car-selling business, have become properly authorised dealers occupying premises with accommodation for displaying cars, and with proper repair and service facilities, it is now not permitted for new cars to be supplied for resale to traders without these qualifications."

BIG SALES FOR OLDSMOBILES

Substantial Gains Over
Low Price Cars

Oldsmobile retail sales figures for the month of May show a 112 per cent. increase over sales for the corresponding month last year.

Sales for the first five months of 1934 have totalled 90 per cent. greater than for the same period of 1933. In spite of the fact that the first shipments of Oldsmobile's new low price six were not made until March first, more sales and eight have been built in the first five months of this year, than in the entire year of 1933.

Last year the Oldsmobile six and eight, combined, secured 25.5 per cent. of all sales in the lower medium price field for the first four months. For the same period this year, the Oldsmobile eight alone has secured 30 per cent. of all sales in the lower medium price field. The Oldsmobile six, now in the low price field, is receiving a substantial and steadily increasing share of the low price car sales.

BIG YORKSHIRE SAFETY DRIVE

Conference Called

A propaganda drive on road safety throughout Yorkshire is being planned.

A conference of "Safety First" councils in Yorkshire has been called, and, says "Motor Transport," it is proposed to make a strong representation to the Minister of Transport for increased financial assistance in carrying out the scheme.

At present the sum of money allocated to Yorkshire for this purpose is 1d. a year per 31 of the population.

ULM VISITING ENGLAND BEFORE LONG FLIGHT 6,000 Miles Between U.S. And Australia

EXPERIMENTAL FLIGHT SEEKS AIRMAIL SERVICE POSSIBILITY

Mr. C. P. Ulm, the Australian airman, is leaving for England this month with a view to attempting the 6,000-mile flight between America and Australia. He is travelling by boat.

He is having a special machine built in London for the flight, which, it is understood, is to have the backing of the Australian Government.

Mr. Ulm flew the Pacific from San Francisco to Australia with Sir Charles Kingsford Smith in "Southern Cross" some years ago.

Record Flight

Earlier this year he flew from London to Australia with two companions in under seven days, thus setting up a new record. He has made flights across the Tasman Sea between Australia and New Zealand with mail in recent months.

The flight is to be of an experimental nature, to ascertain if a mail service can be established by air between America and Australia.

The route from San Francisco to Hawaii and Honolulu has been flown only once, by Kingsford Smith.

With fast machines making the crossing in three long-distance "hops" the two continents can be brought within three days of each other.

GIRL FOILED IN TAXI RAMP

Fainting Lady Vanishes
When Asked To Pay

Tokyo. A novel and successful scheme for obtaining free rides at the expense of taxi-drivers' better instincts, has been brought to light in a hospital here.

A young and beautiful girl would engage a taxi. On arrival to her destination, the driver would find the damsel in distress. His gallantry aroused, he would dash to the nearest hospital for assistance. On emerging from the building he would find the damsel gone, with the fare ticket insolently ticking its tale. The summoned doctor would thoughtfully shake his head, and the taxi-driver would become a confirmed misogynist.

It was different this time.

The taxi-driver brought his fare to the front of a police box and yelled for help. The apparently unconscious young lady was taken to a hospital and brought into the operating room. The usual cynical young interne took a look and very cynically said:

"All right, now you can get up."

The girl opened her eyes, looked around and smiled.

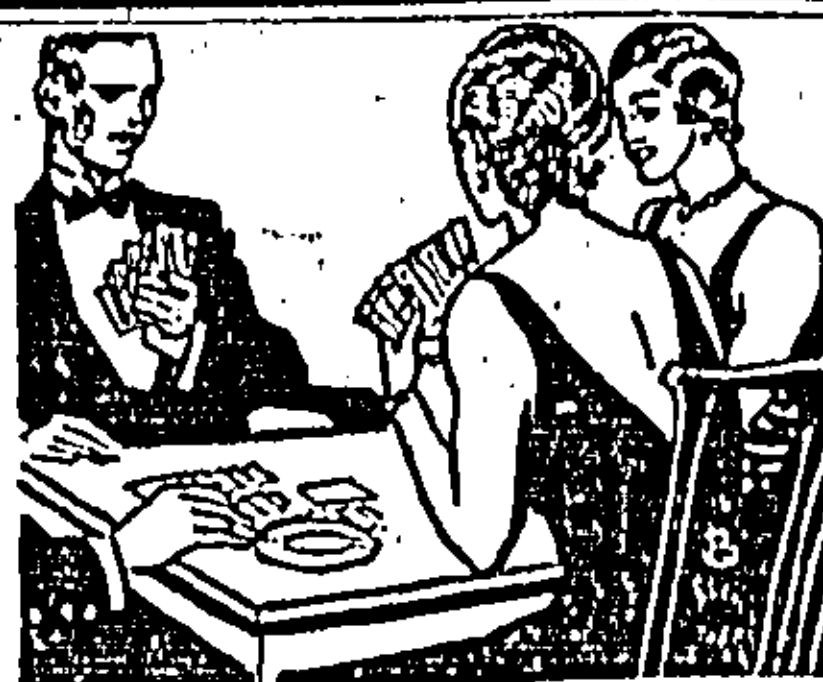

She gave her name as Kimi Osawa, 18. Police say "delinquent." She was not detained.

SEQUEL TO LABATT KIDNAPPING

Alleged Plan To Seize Canadian Premier

Detroit. Acting in co-operation with Canadian authorities, the United States Federal police identified two gangsters who took part about seven weeks ago in the first major kidnapping crime in Canada, when Mr. John Labatt, wealthy beer brewer of London, Ontario, was abducted but subsequently released on the payment of ransom.

Reports from Ottawa state that the gang also planned to kidnap Mr. Richard B. Bennett, the Canadian Prime Minister.

GETTING AN EVEN BREAK

(By LADY RHODES)

SOME players are inclined to rely too much on an equal distribution of the opponents' cards. Holding, for instance, in the combined hands, nine of a suit, including the ace and king, they seem positively aggrieved if the remaining cards are not divided two and two, thus allowing the suit to run off.

In actual fact the 2-2 distribution is only slightly more probable than the 3-1.

It is important to realise this in certain cases. For instance, if one hand holds A K J x x and the other x x x x, it is just, but only just, worth while playing for the drop of the queen.

The same question arises in the case where the two hands hold seven of a suit, including the ace, king, and queen, but no other high card. Here the suit will run off if the opponents' cards are divided 3 and 3, but again this is only slightly more probable than the 4-2 distribution.

If, therefore, you have such a holding as A Q x x in one hand and K x x in the other, it is not at all safe to count on four tricks in the suit, when you are planning to play the hand. The suit should be retained till as late as possible, in case one opponent holds four and rightly or wrongly discards one of them while you are playing out some other suit.

Managing The Situation

An example of the proper way to manage this situation occurred in a game the other day. North opened with one no trump, her partner said 2, and North rebid 3. Her hands and dummy's were:

North

S—A 7 5 H—A 7 6

D—K Q 6 5 C—Q J 7

South

S—Q 3 2 H—9 5 3 2

D—A 7 4 C—K 9 4

East opened with the knave of spades, which was allowed to win. She then led the ten, and dummy's queen took the trick. At this stage the declarer could see two tricks in spades, 2 in clubs, one in hearts. She therefore needed four tricks in diamonds to make her contract.

She led the king of clubs from dummy. West took the trick with the ace and returned a spade, which the declarer won with her ace. She then led out the queen and knave of clubs.

On the third round of clubs, East was in a difficult position: she had no more of the suit and not liking to part with an established spade when she held the king of hearts as a re-entry, discarded a small diamond. The declarer then took four tricks in diamonds and the ace of hearts, thus making her contract. The opponents' hands were—

East

S—K J 10 9 6 H—K J

D—9 8 3 2 C—8 5

West

S—8 4 H—Q 10 8 4

D—J 10 C—A 10 6 3 2

East could scarcely be blamed for discarding a diamond, as she could not possibly know that the declarer had four to the king, queen, and from her point of view, the best chance of defeating the contract seemed to be to hold on to her two established spades. If, as so many players would have done, North had started by trying to run off her diamonds East, seeing her partner fall on the third round, would have kept her remaining card in that suit and the declarer could have only made 8 tricks.

LILI DAMITA STANDS FIRM

Miss Lili Damita, the French film star, who is staying in London, refused either to deny or confirm her reported engagement to an Australian rancher, Mr. Hugo Brassey.

"There is one thing about it," she added, "my private life and my stage life are separate. I hate publicity in my private life."

PICTURE WAR ON CANCER

X-Ray Films To Fight
The Disease

VAST STRIDES MADE

Giant strides in the attack on cancer by the use of X-rays and radium were revealed at the Fourth International Congress of Radiology.

The growth of cancer cells is now radiophotographed every few minutes, and the photographs, combined into a film, show, in a few minutes the growth of a cell over a long period. The radiologists urged in their addresses, given in three languages, that it was of great importance that surgeons should be used in every hospital.

Britain, America, and Germany have the most highly organized cancer research laboratories, it was stated at the conference. Russian doctors had proved themselves outstandingly clever, but were handicapped owing to the condition of their country.

Many of the martyrs of radiology, a science which is only 33 years old, attending the conference, are men who have lost their fingers from the effects of the rays with which they work.

"Now we understand how to protect our hands by means of lead covers," said a leading radiologist, "the younger men may be said to be in no danger."

'ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS' SOLD

M.S. Of Famous Hymn
Fetches Only £24

It would be difficult to imagine a greater diversity of style and subject than that existing between the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the satires of Juvenal. Yet at Sothby's recently a manuscript of the first by the Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould appeared with 84 pages by Dean Swift of his translation of the sixth and tenth satires by the slashing Roman.

Baring-Gould wrote the famous hymn in 1865 for some Sunday-School children who had to march several miles on their annual "treat." The copy sold for only £24 (Quaritch) was presented in 1921 to his friend, Miss Evelyn Healey, but it is not certain whether it is the first original draft.

Mr. Gabriel Wells, of New York, had to give a much higher price—£350—for the Swift manuscript.

EASIEST OFFENCE TO COMMIT

Unemployment Benefit
Swindles

"It is the easiest offence to commit and the most difficult to detect," said Mr. Sydney Hampton, prosecuting at Wimbledon Police Court a woman who was alleged to have made a false declaration to obtain unemployment benefit.

"Although the Ministry of Labour take a very serious view of it, and 2,000 cases have been prosecuted, the extent of the fraud remains the same," he added.

Mrs. Matilda Henwood, of Haydens Road, Wimbledon, was fined 2s. 6d. for obtaining 4s. 6d. in respect of two days when she was actually employed.

JOLLY EVENING AT

K.C.C.

Hot Night Fails To Deter

Dancers

A very successful and enjoyable

dance was held at the Kowloon Cricket Club last evening, approximately 100 dancers taking the floor to the strains of the orchestra of Fred and His Pals, in spite of the sultry atmosphere.

More dancers had been expected,

but the heat apparently deterred

the less enthusiastic members, although what the Club lost on ticket sales owing to the heat, was amply made up on bar returns, lemon

squashes being in great demand

throughout the evening.
